

Nation's jobless rate higher than expected

By United Press International
The Ford administration Friday said unemployment would be higher this year than first expected but added recovery from the recession would be stronger. And one economist said flatly, "The recession is over."

White House economists, in revising economic projections through 1979, said the national unemployment rate would average 8.7 per cent this year.

That would mean about of eight million jobless persons looking for work each month. It does not include the million or so workers who have given up looking for jobs.

The White House estimated in January the average at 8.1 per cent but the rate was 8.9 per cent in April and expected to exceed 9 per cent in May.

The administration said the higher unemployment rate was the result of a deeper than expected slump in the first months of the year. The White House now expects the nation's total production of goods and services, or gross national product, to be down 3.6 per cent by the end of the year. The original estimate was 3.1 per cent.

But, the administration said, the recovery from the recession will be stronger than expected, providing a surge in the GNP of 6.3 per cent in 1976. The original estimate was 4.8 per cent.

Furthermore, the White House said, inflation is cooling even more than first thought and prices will rise only about 9.1 per cent this year and 7.1 per cent in 1976.

These rates are still high by historical standards but substantially below the 12 per cent rate of 1974 and the 11.3 per cent and 7.8 per cent predicted for 1975 and 1976 just five months ago.

One economist, Irwin Kellner of Manufacturers Hanover Trust, said recent indicators of economic activity provide ample evidence that the recession "is over."

"All available evidence suggests that the recession ended during the second quarter, as expected, and that a broad-based economic recovery is about to get under way," Kellner said.

If Kellner is correct, the recession lasted 18 or 19 months, making it the longest and most severe since the Great Depression. Since it began in November, 1973, some four million jobs have been lost. The unemployment rate has soared from 4.7 per cent to around 9 per cent.

In Detroit, a t o m a k e r s planned to produce 623,000 cars in June, more than at any time this year. Detroit's expected spring sales surge was a bust, and automakers now are counting on an upturn this summer.

All of the industry's plants, with the exception of three Ford Motor assembly factories, will be operating next week.

place the issue of allowing the public to attend all future policy meetings before the school board at its next monthly meeting.

Treasury to hold expensive auction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will sell about one-half million ounces of gold from its national stockpile at public auction June 30, the Treasury Department said Friday.

At the current free market price of about $167 an ounce, the sale could earn more than $83 million for the government.

It will be the second government gold sale this year. On Jan. 6, the Treasury accepted bids for about 754,000 ounces of bullion at an average price of $165.67 per ounce.

The Treasury said it may announce additional gold sales later this year.

The June 30 sale is open to private and commercial bidders. But bids will not be accepted from foreign governments under an international understanding that prevents government banks from buying gold on the free market.

The gold will be sold in bars of 250 ounces each and the minimum bid will be one bar. At current prices, one bar is worth about $41,750.

It has been U.S. government policy for several years to downplay the role of gold in the international monetary system and to have it treated in the same way as any other precious commodity.

Treasury Undersecretary Jack F. Bennett said next month's auction is "consistent with our policy that gold will not play a central role in the world monetary system."

Bennett said he assumed commercial and industrial users would be the big bidders, but recalled that a private German bank was the major buyer at January's sale.

Private citizens are not encouraged to buy gold as an investment, in line with the Treasury's policy of "demonetizing the precious metal," Bennett said.

"We want to sell something that belongs to the American people and we want to sell it at as high a price as possible," Bennett said.

S-burg School Board may let sun shine on meetings

By HARRIET LEEDS
Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — The public will be allowed to witness the Stroudsburg Area School Board in action Wednesday when directors attempt to cut expenses and a proposed 25-mill real estate tax increase in its 1975-76 budget.

Future policy meetings may also be opened to the public, due to the Easton-based newspaper, The Express, which threatened to file charges against the Stroudsburg Area School Board for allegedly violating the state's open meeting statute, the "Sunshine Law."

At the next regular board meeting, scheduled for June 18, the board will take a vote on whether or not to open all future policy meetings to the public, according to board president Lloyd E. Manter.

Manter called a Friday afternoon press conference to announce the change and to allow school directors who could attend to express their opinions on open policy meetings.

Of the nine board members, three attended the press conference and one arrived just as it concluded.

In his opening statement Manter said he believed there is a need for policy meetings and that such topics as personnel "should stay within the realm of a confidential type of meeting."

He said, however, that budget meetings should be open to the public.

Asked about the future of policy meetings, Manter responded, "We'll have open discussion at the next regular business meeting and let them (the board) decide on policy meetings."

Lim explained.

Lim anticipated a problem if the public mistakes the free exchange of ideas and opinions of a policy meeting for formal board opinion. Also, issues that do not merit serious board consideration are often discounted at policy meetings.

Two die in crash on 209

KRESGEVILLE — A Kunklestown couple escaped injury Friday morning in an accident that killed two people and injured another.

State police at Lehighton said James L. Smith, 26, and Darlene G. Smith, 22, of Kunklestown R.D. 1, were not injured in the 11:10 a.m. crash.

Bruce C. Frank, 28, of Norristown was killed in the accident. A passenger in the Frank car, Barbara J. Ballou, 32, of Lansdale, died at 7:18 p.m. Friday after being admitted to Gnadon Huetten Hospital in Lehighton in critical condition.

Floyd O. Lundry Jr., 34, of Washington, N.J., was listed in satisfactory condition at Gnadon Huetten Hospital late Friday.

Police said the Frank car was traveling north on Route 209 six miles north of Lehighton and crossed into the south-bound lane where it was struck by a truck operated by Lundry.

The truck then flipped onto its right side and was struck by the Smith car, which was also traveling south.

It was raining at the time of the accident, according to police.

Police said the Frank car, a 1971 Volkswagen sedan, was demolished while the truck received $2,000 damages and the Smith car received little damage.

U.S. nuclear arms tactics reaffirmed by Schlesinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger has reaffirmed that the United States favors the first use of tactical nuclear weapons to blunt any Communist-bloc attack in Europe.

He did so in a 30-page report to Congress, made available Friday at a time Pentagon specialists are deep in debate over the size, quality and use of the European-based nuclear arms.

Schlesinger made his report to the House and Senate armed services committees, the foreign relations committees and the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, under an amendment offered by Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., and adopted last year by Congress.

He acknowledged that the first use of nuclear weapons by either NATO or the Warsaw Pact would pose grave risks of escalating into major nuclear warfare.

But he offered this rationale for using NATO tactical nuclear weapons in the event of a prior Soviet-bloc conventional attack across Europe:

"To blunt" a Warsaw Pact conventional attack and threaten Communist tactical nuclear weapons which might be quickly brought into use.

"To change the assessment of Warsaw Pact military and political leaders that they could achieve an "early or cheap victory."

"To seek avoiding nuclear escalation and bring any conflict to the negotiating table.

Schlesinger's exposition was essentially a restatement of allied policy in Europe over the past 20 years, congressional military specialists said.

However, it comes at a time when Pentagon specialists are reviewing all aspects of nuclear weaponry in Europe with a view to reducing their number.

Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said in his annual military postures statement early this year about U.S. tactical weapons in Europe:

"Our current inventory is becoming obsolete; the issue is not whether we want to use such weapons, but how we replace the deterrent capability that these weapons provide."

Under pressure from Sens. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., and Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., the Pentagon has improved security of nuclear weapons in Europe and taken some steps to reduce their number.

Schlesinger said there were 7,000 nuclear warheads in Europe as of last August.

ness was made to avoid the bureaucratic complexities of providing different amounts to different drivers, as was done in World War II.

"It was more or less the feeling that this was not going to be equitable," he said. "Nor was it intended that way. It is a drastic means of dealing with the problem and would be used only in the event of a serious emergency."

"We don't want to get caught like we did the last time," he said in reference to the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

The spokesman explained the plan was drafted as a standby measure and, if approved by Zarb and President Ford, would be used only in the event of a major emergency.

A summary of the report, made available by the FEA, estimated rationing could be in full force within 90 days after a decision to impose it. It would start out using 4.8 billion rationing coupons printed during the embargo.

The Task Force estimated it would cost $400 million to start the program and that 93,000 employees would be required to administer it. It estimated the annual operational cost at nearly $2 billion.

The Task Force also proposed that coupons be completely transferrable to "prevent a black market and permit a redistribution of income based on entitlements." It recommended that price controls be imposed along with the plan to prevent windfall profits to the oil industry.

Ford pleased with summit talk results

BRUSSELS (UPI) — President Ford, reassured by key European allies that they never doubted the U.S. commitment to defend the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Friday described himself as "extremely pleased" with the results of his debut into European summitry.

In two days in this capital city, he talked individually and collectively with heads of state of the 14 NATO members and keynoted the formal NATO meeting with a ringing pledge to defend Europe from attack and to retain the U.S. "troop strength there at its present 310,000."

At a press conference Friday he said there was general agreement among the alliance members that the situation in Portugal —where a left-wing military coup seized power last year —"must be watched with care and concern," and expressed sympathy for the Portuguese people.

S. Vietnam's new leaders to take over

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam's new government is expected to take office next Friday, June 6, the sixth anniversary of its founding in the Vietnam jungles, officials said Friday.

The nation has been run since the fall of Saigon April 30 by the military while security was reestablished.

Government sources said the Provisional Revolutionary Government and its important advisory board will likely be introduced at a Saigon ceremony next Friday.

Next government members have been in Saigon for several weeks formulating new policies for South Vietnam. They have held major planning conferences with counterparts from North Vietnam.

Government sources said the North and South Vietnamese officials, in three weeks of top-level meetings, have agreed that political reunification of this nation is at least five years away.

James T. Lynn told reporters. Congressional rejection of most of these plans, calling for higher Medicare fees and other unpopular steps, appears certain.

Lynn warned of inflationary dangers if Congress exceeds the administration's proposal to spend $358.9 billion in Fiscal 1976.

"We are convinced it will be self-defeating if we add more stimulus," Lynn said. "Bills in Congress now could raise the deficit up to $80 billion, $90 billion or $100 billion. This would almost guarantee double-digit inflation and even more severe loss of jobs later."

Spending, deficit goals raised

President's budget revised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration revised its economic forecasts Friday to predict that 1975 would be a worse year economically but 1976 a better year than originally expected.

But there was no improvement in the original projection that it will take until 1980 before relative prosperity and price stability return to America with unemployment and inflation rates below 5 per cent.

And Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said unemployment will rise over 9 per cent in the next few months. It was 8.9 per cent in April.

In a revision of the fiscal 1976 budget Ford sent to Congress last Feb. 3, the administration increased its spending proposals by $10 billion and its proposed deficit by $8 billion for the 12 months starting July 1.

This would bring the deficit to $59.9 billion, the highest in history. In February, Ford had proposed a $51.9 billion deficit, the second highest in history.

Moreover, if Congress rejects Ford's proposals to cut existing spending programs by $8.5 billion, the deficit will exceed $68 billion, Budget Director

Food prices to continue rising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rising prices for cattle, hogs and cotton helped shoot the average of all raw farm commodity prices up another 5 per cent in the month ended May 15, the Agriculture Department reported Friday. Higher retail prices were expected to follow.

It was the second straight substantial increase in the highly volatile farm price index which rose 4 per cent in the month ended April 15 after declining through the five previous months.

The May increase in farm prices appeared to strengthen forecasts by government economists that retail food prices — especially for meat —would continue to rise during late spring and early summer. Food prices dipped in March but resumed their climb in April.

The latest report showed that after running below year-ago levels for many months, farm prices in mid-May were 2 per cent above a year earlier. The report said declining prices for wheat and soybeans partly offset the May gains for products including livestock, cotton and apples.

Government economists have predicted, however, that the overall 1975 increase in grocery prices may be as little as 6 per cent if crops are good this fall or up to 10 per cent if harvests are poor, either figure would be well below the increases of over 14 per cent recorded in 1973 and 1974.

What's news

Beame sends out pink slips

NEW YORK — Mayor Abraham Beame Friday night directed that dismissal notices be sent out beginning next week for 16,550 of the nearly 38,000 city workers he had ordered fired under New York's "crisis budget." In the first stage in the latest round of mass firings, 1,000 police officers, 500 sanitation men, 500 firefighters, 340 prison guards, and 425 of the Transit and Housing Police forces will get the axe. According to Thomas P. Roche, the mayor's chief of staff, pink slips also will go to 4,735 other city agency workers and to 5,000 employees of the Board of Education, 2,000 hospital workers, 1,400 employees of City University, and 690 from the court system and miscellaneous agencies. In his televised address Thursday night, Beame said his $11.89 billion budget, which he termed "a humiliating prospect," would require the firing of 37,315 city workers on or about July 1.

Principals urge less TV violence

WASHINGTON — The nation's high school principals Friday urged the Federal Communications Commission to reduce significantly the amount of violence in television programming. "Student crime and vandalism may well be related to an emphasis in the entertainment world upon violence," said a report of the 33,000 member National Association of Secondary School Principals. The report proposed a new role in education for high schools that would offer students more learning opportunities outside the classroom and discourage dropouts. It said a "media revolution" places new responsibilities on high schools to help young people analyze and criticize these non-classroom educational networks, including films, advertising, television and popular songs.

Clean air deadline ignored

WASHINGTON — Most parts of the United States cannot meet the federal clean air deadline today despite major anti-pollution progress during the past five years, environmental chief Russell E. Train said Friday. Train presented new Environmental Protection Agency data showing at least 159 of the nation's 247 air quality control regions, and possibly more, have air to dirty to meet federal standards in one or more categories. The deadline was created by the Clean Air Act of 1970. The EPA sets standards required by the law and individual states are responsible for achieving those standards.

SALT talks scheduled

WASHINGTON — The United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to resume the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks in Geneva June 23, three weeks later than their target date of June 3. State Department spokesman Robert L. Funseth said Friday that in accordance with the understanding reached between President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev at Vladivostok Nov. 24, the objectives of the resumed negotiations will be to work out a new agreement limiting strategic offensive arms through Dec. 31, 1985.

U.N. goes to war over bugs

ROME — U.N. nations have joined a battle against insects threatening to devour badly needed crops in seven central African countries hard hit in recent years by drought and torrential rains, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization said Friday. It said pledges from the United States, Canada and the Netherlands have raised funds available for crop protection in the Sahel belt south of the Sahara to nearly $5 million. The area is struggling out of six years of drought that caused extensive starvation of humans and cattle. Heavy rains that broke the drought last summer and fall added to crop destruction and hampered transportation of relief supplies.

Patty Hearst's sister sentenced

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Anne Randolph Hearst, 19-year-old sister of missing newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, was sentenced to probation Friday by a federal judge who described her possession of amphetamines, also known as speed, a stupid mistake. Miss Hearst entered a plea of guilty in a soft voice when she appeared before U.S. District Court Judge John T. Curtin with her father, Randolph, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner. The charge against her can carry a one-year prison term or a $5,000 fine, but Curtin allowed Miss Hearst to go free on probation because of "mitigating factors." Under the criminal code, if there is no violation of probation after four months, the charges can be dismissed and she would have no criminal record.

Pathet Lao troops gun down tribesmen

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Communist Pathet Lao troops opened fire on Meo hill tribesmen fleeing their homes in the north of Laos, killing at least five and wounding dozens more, reliable sources reported Friday.

The evacuation of U.S. officials and their dependents from the country continued, passing the 80 per cent mark. The personal effects of some of the departed Americans were shipped out during the day after lengthy negotiations with the Pathet Lao.

A high government official said he hoped for additional American aid to "ease the wounds of war" and said Laos wanted to "remain good friends with the government of the United States."

Lane Pathammavong, a spokesman for the loyalist delegation to the Joint Peace-keeping Commission, reported clashes between Pathet Lao troops and hill tribesmen streaming by the thousands toward Vientiane.

Lane said "many Meo have been killed" in an area about 55 miles north of the capital.

Reliable reports from the scene indicated at least five tribesmen were killed and about 30 wounded Thursday when Pathet Lao-controlled troops opened fire on a group of several hundred Meo who refused to obey orders to return to their home area of north Laos.

The Meo refugees are followers of an ousted pro-American general and were fleeing their homes out of fears of reprisals by the Pathet Lao.

The casualties were the first reported violence since Pathet Lao troops began moving into former loyalist preserves a few weeks ago.

UPI photographer A n a n t Chomchuen reported Friday that Pathet Lao troops were marching groups of Meo back toward the hills at gunpoint.

Ugandan general asks kidnapers to free students

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — Gen. Idi Amin of Uganda Friday appealed to the African guerrilla kidnapers of three foreign students to release them unharmed.

The United States, meanwhile, pressed its attempts to find an intermediary to contact and negotiate with the left-wing guerrillas to secure the freedom of the two Americans and a Dutch woman being held hostage in Zaire.

"Intense activity is still continuing in an attempt to find an appropriate intermediary and venue," U.S. spokesman George Havens told a news briefing.

According to diplomatic sources, American embassies around the world have been alerted to contact anyone with links to members of the largely unknown Peoples' Revolutionary Party rebels in Zaire who kidnaped the three 12 days ago from a wildlife research station on the shores of Lake Tanganyika.

In a radio broadcast from Kampala, Uganda, Amin said:

Cambodia refugees go home

BANGKOK (UPI) — Eighty-seven war refugees "who wanted to go home" returned to Cambodia Friday, a Thai military official said.

Thai authorities said the refugee group included government officials and some younger military officers who had fled Cambodia leaving their families behind.

"They are people who wanted to go home," said a Thai military officer who was present when the refugees, including two women and two children, crossed a small wooden bridge into Cambodia.

The officials said they were caught unprepared when the Cambodians expressed a desire to return. However, the refugees were taken from Utopia air base, where they were being housed, to the border within 24 hours of making their wishes known.

"They were uncertain about what will be waiting for them at home," the Thai military officer said.

Anti-consumer unit poll biased

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Library of Congress study Friday described as biased a poll financed by opponents of the proposed consumer protection agency and cited by them as proving Americans dislike the idea.

The poll, sponsored by the Business Roundtable, found that 75 per cent of those questioned were against establishing the agency. The survey was released just before the Senate passed earlier this month legislation to create the agency.

The study, done by a polling expert at the library at the request of Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., found that the order in which the questions were arranged and the wording used played on people's dislike of big government and frustration with existing bureaucracy. It did not address the real question of whether the new agency was a good idea, the report said.

The roundtable, a group of prominent business leaders, paid $25,000 for the survey which was conducted by Opinion Research Corp., Princeton, N.J.

"Who's kidding whom?" asked Percy in commenting on the study.

The Library of Congress

study said those surveyed were asked a series of questions, in the middle of which was one on whether they favored setting up a commission to try to make existing government regulatory agencies work better. Introducing that issue, it said, "may bias the remaining questions" by forcing persons "vaguely in favor of change" to commit themselves to the commission idea.

Sadat ready for sessions with Ford on Mideast

VIENNA (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat arrived in Austria Friday for a state visit prior to Middle East peace talks with President Ford Sunday and Monday in the resort city of Salzburg.

After meeting for nearly two hours with Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, Sadat commented on his forthcoming meeting with Ford.

"I want to make the acquaintance of President Ford," he told newsmen. "My impression is that he is a very straightforward man."

The Egyptian leader said he would discuss with Ford "all the possibilities of a renewed Geneva conference especially since both the United States and the Soviet Union already have said they want the conference resumed."

Sadat was scheduled to hold additional talks Friday and today with Kreisky and with President Rudolf Kirchschlager on the Middle East crisis and bilateral relations before flying to Salzburg.

Egyptian and American officials said possible subjects of discussion at the Ford-Sadat talks included the choice of a revival of American step-by-step diplomacy, which failed last March to bring about an Egyptian-Israeli interim agreement on Sinai, or a resumption of the Geneva Arab-Israeli peace conference or a combination of both.

At a briefing for Egyptian newsmen covering Sadat's visit, Kreisky called for Israeli withdrawal from all Arab lands seized in the 1967 war.

Malpractice crisis far from solved

By United Press International
San Francisco hospitals began admitting surgery patients Friday after a 30-day layoff caused by a doctors boycott of operating rooms.

The nationwide medical crisis over malpractice insurance continued with strikes threatened by doctors in New York, Texas, Rhode Island and South Carolina.

"All the hospitals are scheduling surgery for Monday," said John Ogden, a spokesman for the San Francisco hospitals. Anesthesiologists, who led the unprecedented doctors' strike, were going back to the operating rooms under a new state law providing a temporary rollback in malpractice premiums.

Many of them returned with reluctance because the law requires them to pick up at the end of the year any actual costs of claims incurred exceeding the premiums paid.

"The doctors have made a bargain with the legislators and they will keep it," Dr. John A. Driscoll, head of the San Francisco Medical Society, told a legislative hearing in San Francisco Friday.

The agreement in San Francisco does not cover the heavily populated Los Angeles area, where hundreds of other doctors have walked out.

The malpractice insurance crisis has been building up throughout the nation for several years as jury awards in malpractice cases mounted sharply.

In New York, doctors' organizations criticized a new state law dealing with the malpractice problem and individual doctors said they would drop their insurance and quit practice beginning next week.

Portuguese attempt to save government

LISBON (UPI) — The military's all-powerful Revolutionary Council summoned Socialist leaders to talks Friday in an effort to resolve a crisis that has threatened the survival of Portugal's coalition government and political parties.

Maoist sources said the arrest of almost 500 of their militants have spoiled their plans for an anti-American demonstration to coincide with President Ford's visit to Spain today. But they said they would hold a mass meeting in an auditorium to protest the government action.

The unannounced meeting between the council and the Socialists opened in the National Palace without fanfare late Friday.

The talks were called after the two Socialist ministers in the government again boycotted a cabinet meeting in protest against Communist influence in the government, mass media and labor unions.

The council earlier this week was told by the ruling Armed Forces Movement to "firmly and rapidly" end this confrontation, which the movement's 240-man assembly blamed on the Socialists.

The council must "transmit to the Socialist party's leaders the general criticism that the assembly made about their absence from the cabinet meetings," a military statement said.

With the exception of one emergency meeting on Angola, Socialist leader Mario Soares, a minister without portfolio, and Justice Minister Francisco Salgado Zenha have refused to attend cabinet sessions for the past 10 days.

In case of fire, Polk residents now dial Stroudsburg

By MAUREEN RUFE
Pocono Record Reporter
KRESGEVILLE — As of Sunday, June 1, the Polk Township Volunteer Fire Company will go on a completely new emergency call system, which will require residents to dial a Stroudsburg number in case of emergency.

There are two separate numbers to call for residents who need the company to put out a fire. Residents living in the 717 area code should dial 424-2400. They will then speak directly to a radioman on the desk at the Monroe County Control Center, who, in turn, will immediately trigger an automatic alarm at the fire house.

At the same time, the location of the fire will be beamed over 25 short-wave Plectron receivers to firemen in their homes and in their cars. Residents living in the 215 area in the township should dial 110 and ask the operator for Enterprize number 2400. The caller will also be hooked into the control center immediately and the fire company will pay the 25-cent toll for the call.

Letters and emergency stickers have been mailed out to all landowners in Polk Township, but more stickers are available for those residents in the municipality who have not already received them.

Chief Edward Arnold suggested that when residents post the stickers on their phone, they cross out whichever of the two numbers they do not need so that in case of fire, they will not waste time dialing improperly.

In case of fire, Arnold said it is also important to know what township or what fire company the resident live in, especially since the call will now be phoned into a man in Stroudsburg who may be unfamiliar with specific locations of developments and homes. Arnold suggested also posting clear directions near the telephone, so that in case of emergency, they can be read off quickly.

When a fire call is phoned in to the control center, residents should give their name and the township they live in, the number they are calling from, the type of fire (home, barn, auto, grass, woods, or the like) and the location of the fire.

When the Plectron units are sounded, drivers of the fire trucks will report to the Polk building for the equipment and the other firemen will go directly to the fire.

The new alarm system will cut down on response time considerably, since all firemen will be alerted within seconds after a call comes in. In the past, the company volunteers had to rely on the firehouse siren or a telephone chain system.

According to Arnold, the company has been considering going on the Plectron system for several years, but felt it was more important to purchase much needed fire equipment first.

The cost of the initial hook-up at the control center is $15 with a $10 monthly charge made for the call service.

With the Polk system tied into the Monroe County Control Center, only the Kunkletown and Sun Valley Fire companies are still using private telephone call systems in case of fire. The Kunkletown company, however, is now investigating hooking into the Plectron system.

Ambulance calls go on new line

EFFORT — Beginning on Sunday, June 1, West End residents will need to dial new telephone numbers to get the West End ambulance.

This week, the ambulance association goes on a new emergency call system, which will be hooked into the Monroe County Control Center.

There are two new numbers which will be in effect for residents needing emergency ambulance service. For residents in the (717) area code, call 424-2400. This is the main control center number in Stroudsburg.

Residents in the (215) area code should dial 110 and ask the operator for Enterprize number 2400. They will immediately be hooked up to the control center and the ambulance association will pay for the long-distance call.

The new system, according to Ambulance Association Technician Michael Donschietz will cut down on the response time of the ambulance service, will provide easier dialing for residents living in the (215) area code and will also provide time for a professional technician at the control center to calm emotional people and get the necessary facts to dispatch the ambulance.

Formerly, all the ambulance calls were filtered through the Effort Diner on two separate area code lines installed there. When an emergency call came into the diner, it was up to a volunteer there to go down a list of telephone numbers of volunteer ambulance drivers, trying, one by one, to contact somebody who was available.

Donschietz commended the diner for its fine cooperation in the past in dispatching the ambulance for residents, but he said the hook-up at the control center will cut down on response time by notifying attendants of a call in seconds by way of Plectron short wave receivers.

The ambulance has purchased six Plectron units at a cost of $150 a piece. Four volunteer drivers already are on the same Plectron system for the Polk Township Fire Company and are able to receive a second ambulance tone on the receivers they now have. This

St. Francis services reduced

PORT JERVIS — Only emergency medical services will be provided at St. Francis Hospital starting June 9 unless the malpractice crisis is resolved.

The decision to withhold services was made in an unanimous vote by the hospital's executive committee Wednesday night.

The committee criticized the state legislature for what it termed "unwillingness and inability" to enact legislation acceptable to doctors.

The hospital staff is preparing to provide health care for the community despite the committee's decision, according to hospital administrator Sister Mary Jeanne.

She said the staff was concerned about providing care but added that doctors can't practice medicine without "equitable" insurance.

Sister Mary Jeanne said the doctor-committee's position wasn't inflexible. "We're not saying our position is so inflexible that it will not change," she explained.

She attended a meeting of the state hospital association Thursday to discuss the malpractice crisis and said further meetings are likely but haven't been scheduled.

At the same time the committee voted to withhold services, the New York State Insurance Department granted permission to the State Medical Society to issue malpractice insurance.

A medical society representative said premiums are expected to increase by 10 or 15 per cent.

brings the number of Plectron receivers to 10 being utilized by the ambulance association.

There will be no need to call any attendants on the phone in the future. As soon as the call comes into the control center, all 10 receivers will carry the call into the driver's homes.

Donschietz explained that the ambulance association, in conjunction with the new system, has set up four six-hour shifts throughout the day with three people on call during those six hours and back-up men on call at all times.

If for any reason, a man is not available for his shift, another volunteer takes his place during that time.

As in the past, the ambulance will be available 24 hours a day every day of the week.

By NORMAN B. LEHDE

The eight member Pike County General Authority was formed in February of this year for the purpose of finding a solution to the county's solid waste disposal problem. The problem being mostly, where do we take it from here?

In the "good old days", the waste disposal system in use in rural areas was relatively simple. You took the material to an isolated area, gave it a heave and hoped the wind wouldn't blow in your direction on a warm day. Some fifteen years ago open season was declared on open dumps and most municipalities turned to what was widely known as sanitary landfill. Then the Department of Environmental Resources decided the latter were not so sanitary after all as leachate became a new word in the environmentalist's vocabulary.

The Pike commissioners, after several efforts to establish a county land fill operation, declared that even Kissinger couldn't negotiate with the DER and appointed the General Authority to come up with an answer.

It was anticipated that incineration would provide the answer but Authority meetings to date have not established this as a sure thing. In fact, they haven't established anything as a sure thing as far as an answer to solid waste disposal is concerned.

Incineration has been boosted as the way of the future but hardly of the present, as far as

READY TO ROLL — Polk Township firemen have sparkling new trucks ready to meet emergencies in the township. But residents can help the volunteers provide service by familiarizing themselves with a new system for making fire calls and providing directions.

No place to throw

Pike County is concerned. This appraisal was made to the Authority by representatives of incinerator firms. There is an estimated installation cost of $1 million, the need of a landfill to dispose of residue, perplexities caused by changing emission regulations. The fluctuation of the volume of waste during the summer recreational season adds to the problem in the county.

Investigations are currently being made of a landfill site located outside of the county and a "total resource recovery" operation being set up in New Jersey. Both of these operations would involve long hauls and the probable establishment of pickup stations as far as Pike is concerned.

One thing is certain, the Authority members are being exposed to the intricacies of a problem that may not be solved without both separation of items by individual home owners and mass participation in disposal and recycling operations by state or federal government. How far can small municipalities go? How far should state and federal agencies go?

As for the "little black box" concept, Tom Edison, where are you?

Conservatives begin push to influence Congress

By ALAN L. OTTEN
Dow Jones-Ottaway News

WASHINGTON — Howard Phillips is, quite unabashedly, a zealot — a zealot for conservatism.

Right now, the man President Nixon set to work zealously dismantling the anti-poverty program is devoting his zeal and considerable talent to two new causes.

First, he's trying to organize the Conservative Caucus, a hope-for grass-roots network to lobby congressmen and state and local officials on behalf of conservative policies.

Then, he's trying to create an independent presidential ticket, to preach the conservative case in 1976 and lay the groundwork for a new Conservative party in the 1978 congressional elections.

"There's definitely a conservative majority in the country today," insists Mr. Phillips, a heavy set young man who talks at machine-gun speed. "These are people who are conservative in their promises if not in all their conclusions. But for that majority to have influence, it must become organized where its strength exists — in the communities where people live."

His efforts are yet another example of a recent national upsurge in conservative organizing activity. New groups seem often to overlap or compete — lobbying, raising funds or providing services for conservative candidates, trying to chart future course. But Mr. Phillips welcomes the activity as proof both of conservative strength and the inadequacy of the two existing parties.

"All this ferment," he says, "means more efforts in the field, involving more people who were never active before."

For far too long, he argues, conservatives tried to do battle in Washington, where liberals are the most entrenched and influential. "We have to build political mechanisms at the grass roots," he says. "We need a local power structure of the liberals."

The Conservative Caucus, of which New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson is national chairman and Mr. Phillips national director, aims to establish a local caucus in each of the 435 congressional districts, most by late fall and the rest early next year.

Each local group would meet periodically, set specific lobbying goals, decide whether to back candidates in local primary or general election campaigns. The local caucuses would come together in September 1976 to endorse a presidential ticket.

His hope, Mr. Phillips says, is to construct "reinforcing coalitions" — to build the local caucuses from men and women already organized behind specific causes which they deeply care about.

Examples: People fighting school busing, gun control, the Equal Rights Amendment, easy abortion, amnesty, liberal textbooks.

"Right now," he declares, "it's easier for a congressman to vote liberal than conservative. The teachers or labor unions or big business firms that will benefit from a program keep very close tabs, and if he does not vote their way, he hears about it.

But the people back home who do not want a $100 billion deficit are not likely to be aware that he voted for a particular bill. We want to make it at least painful for him to vote for it as to vote against it."

At last count, Mr. Phillips says, the national caucus had raised about $325,000 from mass mailings sent out since it began in November. He claims 25,000 contributing members, and another 25,000 who pledged support but couldn't contribute.

Ideally, in his script, the caucus would be a transitional organization, with its members becoming the nucleus of a new party in 1978. The Republican party just will not do, he believes.

Not only do Watergate, and recent economic troubles lessen the GOP's appeal to conservative independents and conservative Democrats, but Mr. Phillips also argues that conservatively-inclined working class people are put off by what he calls the "high Tory style" of many active Republicans.

School tax hike awakens S-burg

The Stroudsburg School District uncovered an instant system to end taxpayer apathy this week: It came in with a budget that would increase property taxes 40 per cent.

As one of the directors prophesied later, "we may have to schedule the next meeting at the football stadium to accommodate the crowd."

Nobody expects the 25-mill increase to stand up. Times have been tough the past year. Other tax revenues have gone down and that's one reason property taxes have to go up. So in a tough time you tighten up on things like budgets.

The Stroudsburg school budget proposed this week of $5.9 million is up only 16.4 per cent over the current year. And yet the property tax increase is up 40 per cent. Obviously other sources have dried up or been static.

The district loses by the state aid formula, it has lost on income tax revenue and it has lost on property transfer taxes. If the school directors could have foreseen the economic problems a year or two ago they could have hiked the millage more gradually. But they didn't and they were not alone. We had been spoiled, perhaps, by annual increases in assessment that virtually covered increases in expenses.

Where will the tax increase bottom out? Well, the economy is expected to improve momentarily but the school district can't legally approve a deficit budget as can Uncle Sam. It must balance, at least in advance. It must have a healthy (or is it unhealthy) tax increase to balance for 1975-76. Then if things improve it will have a cushion to pass back next year.

Guesses are the final millage increase will be between 10 and 15 per cent — a 16 to 24 per cent increase in taxes.

If you have other ideas join the multitude at that next meeting and or write the editor here at The Record.

Meanwhile our days of apathy are over — the hard way.

Early but deserved

The Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau is doing a nice thing in a couple of weeks. It's making the Laurel Blossom Festival Ball a testimonial to Bob Uguccioni, the PMVB executive director.

There may have been a few doubts about Bob eight years ago when he was tapped for the job. There are still doubts (about how to spell and pronounce his name) but none about his ability. Obviously he has kept an often hard-headed group of entrepreneurs working together for the good of the Poconos.

Uguccioni is younger than he looks (which tells us something about his taxing job — and his hairline) adding further stature to the testimonial. He should be around for a couple of more decades of promoting his community. Let's hope so.

Evel the rich

Nominee for "Disappointment of the Week": Evel Knievel, who retired on Tuesday but un-retired on Wednesday.

Evel is the thrill show epitome. He agrees to break a leg, an arm, a pelvis for a fee with the always-present potential that his widow will pick up the last check.

He's the oldtime lion tamer, the trapeze act without a net, the climber of Everest, the fastest draw in the west. With one exception: he's rich.

Many more local folks will be watching Evel crash in a television tape today than will be watching the Formula 5000 at Pocono Raceway. If someone is hurt at the track it will at least be in competition, proving something.

If Evel proves anything it's the foolishness of his contemporaries.

Korea scenario ready

WASHINGTON — President Ford has thought through to the end his determination that the United States will not run away from South Korea if the North Koreans launch another attack.

The President knows the stakes are high at home and abroad; he sees the American national interest deeply involved — and intends to act accordingly.

It will not be easy. But of all the different options, the guidelines which make most sense to the Administration are these:

1 — The President is not bluffing one bit when he says it is his intention that the U.S. defense forces will remain in South Korea — and fight if necessary.

2 — Unlike President Truman, Mr. Ford will take the issue to Congress.

3 — He will not commit American troops to combat in Korea without congressional approval.

4 — He does not intend to press for approval hastily. The apparent consensus in the White House is that events in the next few months will do more to shape the decisions favorably to the President than premature argument.

It is clear that those who share in the decision-making do not think it useful for the President to ask Congress to support his commitment to South Korea at this moment. The view is that this would be asking Congress to act on the theoretical possibility and too far in advance of events.

Arguable position

This is certainly an arguable position. It rests on the premise that there would almost certainly be military probing thrusts by North Korea before any all-out attack, and that, in any event, strong Republic of South Korea forces in the front lines would preclude a quick breakthrough.

Congress would then be consulted and would be confronted with a situation, not a theory. It is evident that the Administration intends to wait for such a situation to develop.

Perhaps this wait-and-see strategy will work, but it seems to me that it can be made to work only if the Administration actively and persuasively shows the country and the Congress that Korea is not "another Vietnam," that the stakes for the United States are far higher than they were in Southeast Asia.

The crucial difference between Korea and Vietnam is Japan. For the United States to leave South Korea open to Communist conquest would destroy the foundation of U.S.-Japanese relations. It would almost certainly force Japan to turn to nuclear weapons. This would create a perilously destabilizing chain reaction in the entire Far East.

But there are pitfalls in a policy of wait-and-see. While the Administration is waiting and seeing, a do-nothing mood in the country and in Congress could become irreversible.

Strike him out!

Impersonating heroes of the past provides escapism

I note here the curious current phenomenon, in which assorted actors are scoring big hits by impersonating well-known American personalities out of the past.

Ford's Theater in Washington is now for the first time since John Wilkes Booth's show-stopper functioning again as a playhouse, and the actor James Whitmore has been filling the seats and attracting much favorable notice with the one-man show in which he impersonates the late Harry Truman. Whitmore ranges over the entire Truman career in a dramatic monologue.

Earlier, however, Whitmore had a comparable success on a two-year tour impersonating the comedian and sage, Will Rogers. In Phoenix, Arizona, another actor, Hal Holbrook, has put on more than 1,600 performances as Mark Twain, and Henry Fonda is touring the country as the lawyer Clarence Darrow.

No doubt all this reflects the general "nostalgia" boom, as do movies like "Stavisky," "Murder on the Orient Express," "The Great Waldo Pepper," "The Great Gatsby," and so on. But the Truman-Twain-Rogers-Darrow phenomenon may also be part of the "Americanism" mood attendant upon the Bicentennial and strengthened by frustration abroad.

Indeed, there are times when the past does seem especially attractive. During the last stages of our Indochina debacle, when it seemed that nothing at all could be done with dignity or style, a friend slipped me a kind of business card on which was printed, in large letters, "I MISS IKE," and then, in much smaller letters, "Hell, I Even Miss Harry."

Reality injected

But, to inject a little reality, it was one of the greatest points about Ike in 1952 that he most particularly was not Harry, providing a contrast to him in almost all respects. Ike running for the Presidency capitalized on widespread disgust with the recent Truman performance in office.

In his great poem, "Directive," the subject of which is one way in which we use the past, Robert Frost begins: "Back out of all this now too much for us, — Back in a time made simple by the loss — Of detail, burned, dissolved, and broken off — Like graveyard marble sculpture in the weather . . ."

Frost is telling us here that we have an all but irresistible and probably natural impulse to simplify the past. The weary mind relaxes into the past, the simplified past, back out of all this now too much for us.

Thus James Whitmore at Ford's Theater gives us the feisty, the earthy, the lovable Truman. He does not give us his harsher and more autocratic side, and not his bluster and his bullying, his ignorance and his demagoguery. Harry Truman's attitude toward the nascent Civil Rights movement is not on display, either.

No doubt Hal Holbrook gives us Mark Twain's "wit and wisdom," especially the more heartwarming examples. But there was a bleak and nihilistic side to Twain too, as well as an ample streak of Philistinism.

I have not yet seen Henry Fonda's Clarence Darrow, but the bet here is that I will see mostly the heroic tribune of the accused, but not the shallow determinist, nor will there be much hint that there were two sides in the Scopes Trial, not only "modernist" versus "fundamentalist," but parents versus bureaucrats for a say in the curriculum. Back out of all this, then, now too much for us.

Mostly harmless fun

No doubt all these nostalgia impersonations are largely harmless fun, but a truly bad idea is also gestating. James Whitmore is saying that he would like to combine with Fonda-Darrow and Holbrook-Twain in a great Bicentennial TV special. The three actors would appear before live audiences and respond to questions on current issues as they imagine Truman, Twain, and Darrow would have done.

Can you imagine the attitudes that would be struck? The glop that would pour forth? No doubt they'd ask Gore Vidal to provide the scripts.

Stories Behind Words By William Penfield

Pedigree

A pedigree and a crane's foot might not seem to have anything in common, but they do. The original meaning of pedigree is "foot of a crane."

During the Middle Ages, genealogists — persons who trace lines of ancestry — used a three-pronged symbol to indicate lineal descent. Because of its resemblance to a crane's foot, the symbol was called "ped de grue" (foot of a crane) in French.

"Ped de grue" became "pedigree" in English. By then its meaning had broadened — from the symbol used to denote a line of ancestry to the line of ancestry itself.

The Record welcomes letters from its readers. All letters must be signed. Names of writers will not be withheld on letters dealing with a controversial topic or which attack an institution or individual. The Record reserves the right to edit all letters for style and length and to omit those it feels are libelous or malicious in content.

Power grab

Editor, The Record:

Doesn't Mr. Pressman know that under socialism, communism or dictatorship or whatever you want to call it, the people don't own anything? The politicians own everything including the people.

Capitalism with all of its faults is still the best for all the people including the workers. Anyone who can read should know this. Those that don't have an axe to grind and are trying to deceive the rest of us.

Socialism is just another name for a power grab by a few ambitious people who would like to have absolute control over the rest of us.

Food boycotts not halted

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Grape growers called on labor leader Cesar Chavez Friday to end his nationwide food boycotts which they branded "obsolete" in the wake of passage of California's historic new farm labor legislation.

But Chavez' United Farm Workers declared "the boycotts go on" until the bill takes effect Aug. 28 and secret ballot union elections are held and contracts secured.

"If boycotting ever had a purpose, it has outlived it," said an official of the South Central Farmers Committee, representing 65 table grape growers. Similar grower appeals were issued in Chicago and New York.

In 1965, table grape growers were the first to feel the pressure of farm labor strikes and nationwide consumer boycotts organized by the UFW. Chavez is boycotting non-UFW table grapes and lettuce as well as Gallo and Franzia wineries.

The new California accord, passed Thursday by the California legislature, was fashioned by Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. It is being hailed as a prototype for a national farm labor relations act.

The 250,000 field hands who work full-time and seasonally in California's $9 billion-a-year agricultural industry are expected to unionize through state-sanctioned elections this fall during the key wine grape harvest.

The Teamsters now hold more than 400 contracts with growers, including many table grape farmers.

Pressure came from White House

Top drug law official forced to quit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Director John R. Bartels Jr. of the Drug Enforcement Administration Friday submitted his resignation to Attorney General Edward H. Levi, who has expressed a desire for new leadership in the agency.

Bartels said in a letter he was stepping down "pursuant to the request of the Attorney General yesterday ..."

A source close to the situation said pressure to replace Bartels at the agency, which has been beset by internal squabbling and allegations of "unprofessional" performance, came from the White House.

Another possible factor was a dispute between the agency and the Justice Department as to whether federal penalties should be reduced for possession of marijuana for personal use.

There was no immediate announcement regarding a successor.

President Richard M. Nixon set up the DEA in July, 1973 — consolidating functions of the Treasury Department and the old Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs — and named Bartels to head it.

The agency has been criticized by the Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee, headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., which plans to hold extensive hearings next month on DEA operations.

Jackson declined to comment on Bartels' resignation, but told reporters "the issue of the effectiveness and operations of the Drug Enforcement Administration remains crucial."

At a news conference Thursday, Levi said when asked about his position on marijuana:

"I think if I had to take one at this moment, my general direction is ... that most people agree that possession of a small amount, whether it is said to be decriminalized or not, ought to be downgraded in terms of the penalty."

Nixon urged to move

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is being urged by his closest friends and advisers to leave San Clemente for "a new base of operations in New York" to be more accessible to international leaders, the Los Angeles Times said Friday.

The newspaper said Nixon has been in contact with foreign leaders and has received overtures from U. S. corporations to serve as consultants on international operations.

A number of Nixon's closest confidants, including former Attorney General John Mitchell, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo and Robert H. Abplanalp, recently met with Nixon at his oceanside estate where he has spent most of his time since he resigned the presidency last Aug. 9.

"It was at that meeting that strong opinions were voiced that the former president should leave California," the Times said. "The consensus of the group was that Mr. Nixon should relocate for greater communication with world and U.S. leaders."

"If you want to be in contact with world leadership, San Clemente is a tough place to do it," the Times quoted a source as saying.

Nixon has maintained "regular contact with U. S. and world leaders," the Times said, and "in addition, several heads of countries have sought his counsel on international problems and a number of American companies have considered retaining Mr. Nixon's aid in international business matters."

The Times said Nixon has made no decision on whether to accept the advice "and is not likely to act soon."

The source told the Times that Nixon, who underwent surgery last year for a phlebitis condition that almost killed him, is "nearly recovered from his ailments" but "looks older and has a problem keeping his weight up."

No Weight Gain After Losing 48 Pounds on Conway Diet

Remember Sally Kuhns? She appeared over a year ago after she had lost 48 pounds in six months. Here she is again, still slim and trim. The Conway 1000-Calorie Diet worked for her and it will work for you. Sally says the Conway Forever Slim plan "Keeps me smiling."

Obscene calls

Dear Ann Landers: My roommate and I have received five obscene phone calls this past week. We're scared to death the person calling knows who we are and where we live. Please tell us what to say. We've tried being nice, reading the riot act, threatening to notify the police. Nothing works. We need advice. —

Sleepless Nights

Dear S.N.: The person who makes obscene phone calls is a sickie who gets his jollies from evoking responses of fear, anxiety or disgust. In short, he enjoys upsetting people.

The moment you realize it's that kind of a call, hang up without saying one word. If he calls a second time, hang up again. A third and fourth — do the same.

Always answer — don't just let the phone ring. Say "Hello," and wait to make sure you know for certain it's the nut. Then hang up. Those creeps usually call from a phone booth. When you answer and hang up, they lose their dimes. Your silence, coupled with the loss of dimes, will almost always discourage the caller before long.

If any threats are made, notify the police at once. If calls persist, call the phone company. In some circumstances the calls can be traced.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the mother of a sick child who is under five years of age. The first symptom of his illness is a high fever. He has been hospitalized for convulsions three times.

The problem is the doctor. Because I am high-strung and nervous I become very unsure of myself whenever I think my son is getting sick, so I phone the doctor. He has very little patience. The last time I called he said, "I'm putting this bluntly. Please don't phone every time you think your child is getting sick."

Ann, I hate to be a pest but I get panicky. I realize most doctors are overworked, but we trust them with the lives of our children. I don't want to be afraid to phone the doctor. My child might become dangerously ill before I call him. Then it may be too late. Please tell me what to do. —

Frightened Mother

Dear Mother: I might be able to help if I knew how often you have called the doctor in the last month — or week. Four times? Twenty-five times? And what time do you make these calls? Noon? Three in the morning? Also, what did he suggest you do for the child?

Since fever seems to be the symptom, why don't you have an understanding that you won't call unless the child has a temperature of 101 degrees or more? This seems reasonable to me. If it doesn't seem reasonable to HIM — get another doctor.

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do with two teenagers and an 11-year-old who love to go barefooted? I don't mean just around the house. They leave their shoes at home and go everywhere — visiting friends, to the park, the movies, etc.

My oldest (16) says it's good for the arches and builds up immunity to disease. Please check your experts and tell me if there is any truth to his theories. —

Outa My Mind

Dear Outa: My experts said NO. They also said something else. Barefoot kids can pick up stubborn fungus infections, not to mention pieces of glass, rusty nails, and other assorted sources of trouble.

Replace that macaroni in your spine with a little steel. Mother, and tell them, "Nobody leaves this house without sandals, sneakers or some foot protection."

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. Can't talk

By Jean Adams

SILENCE: (Q.) I don't know what to talk to Jane about. It's dumb to be with her because I don't have anything to say to her and she doesn't have anything to say, either.

It's ridiculous when we are both quiet all the time.

Embarrassed in Texas

(A.) If you and Jane like to be together, it is not necessary to talk all the time. There are times, in fact, when it is better not to talk.

But if you and Jane really do not care for each other, and really don't have anything to say to each other, it would be better to find someone else. You might have no trouble at all talking with a girl you really liked.

DRUG DILEMMA (Q.) I think I'm in love with Wayne but I'm not sure. I do know he does dope and I don't want him to. His horoscope says for him not to commit himself to anything, or he might regret it later. If I ask him to stop dope he might regret it later and do it again — or hate me.

I kinda want to be free of him, but how can I free myself from love?

15 in Louisiana

(A.) Wayne can commit himself to drugs just as firmly as he can commit himself to not taking them. So your reasoning about his horoscope doesn't make much sense. In not saying anything to him about drugs, you would be encouraging him to commit himself to them.

Talk to him about his trouble. Encourage him to kick his dependency, and to get help in doing so if he needs it, which he probably does.

But do not commit yourself to him as long as he is having an affair with narcotics.

RATIONED: (Q.) I'm 18 and going steady with a 17-year-old guy. I like him very much but can see him only once a week because of my grades. He is getting very uptight. Yesterday he told me he doesn't want to see me anymore! What should I do?

Losing Out in Louisiana

(A.) Are you assuming that the boy is restless because he can't see you more often? Did he specifically say that that was the reason? Boys of 17 or 18 very often want to make a change, and when they do there is little a girl can do to stop them.

Whatever the case, if I were you I would concentrate more on my studies, not only to earn more free time but also to make a better record and be better prepared for adult life, which you are entering now.

Opening lead — two of clubs. There is a lot of room for deception in bridge, as anyone who succumbs to a cunning play can readily testify. For example, consider East's performance in this deal where he was defending against six spades.

West led a club, won by East with the ace after declarer had followed low from dummy. East thereupon returned the five of clubs!

Had South known that East also had the king, he could have made the slam then and there by discarding a heart on the return. But, lacking X-ray vision, South ruffed the club and proceeded to stake his hopes on a heart finesse. He naturally assumed from East's plays to the first two tricks that West had the king of clubs, in which case a heart finesse offered by far the best chance for the contract.

When South attempted the finesse later on, the jack lost to the queen and he went down one.

East's more usual play on the opening lead would have been to win the trick with the king. But this would have given the show away because, for practical purposes, it would have marked him with the ace. Declarer would then have been able to trap the ace by leading the queen through the ace to establish a parking place for his heart loser.

By playing the ace at trick one, East implanted the thought in declarer's mind that West had the king. The low club return at trick two served strongly to strengthen that impression. East was on relatively safe ground when he returned the low club because he knew from the deuce of clubs lead that West had either four clubs or one.

LOOKING FOR ANSWERS — Robert Preston (left) is the father to the man — Cliff Robertson (right) — in the world premiere of 'My Father's House,' a contemporary drama of an overpressed man looking for answers in memories of his childhood on the ABC Television Network's 'ABC Sunday Night Movie' Sunday from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Summer means parks, recreation for vacationing kids

By LORA SHARPE
Family Fare Editor
STROUDSBURG — With the end of school approaching, mothers — and fathers — may be wondering what they are going to occupy their children with during the long, hot months of summer vacation. Parents may also be concerned with the expense of recreation and vacation for themselves and their families in the midst of a recession. Listed below, therefore, are local park facilities available to area residents at little or no cost.

Barrett Township maintains High Acres Park in Canadensis. The 7.7 acre park, located near Buck Hill Inn, includes a baseball field, a pavilion and picnic facilities. The ball field was recently completed by volunteer hands. A concession stand will soon be built to accommodate ball players and spectators. Strollers can admire the park's stream. Playground equipment, modeled on the "Playgrounds for Free" concept, will be set up early this summer.

Delaware Water Gap Borough maintains Schull Park and Pool in the borough. The pool is due to open June 7; hours will be 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

Family memberships for the pool will be $25 for residents and $40 for non-residents for the summer. Individuals will pay for pool use as follows: residents, 10 cents for children up to five years old, 25 cents for children between five and 17, and 50 cents for adults;

non-residents, double the resident fee according to age group. An all-purpose court is in the park; it is presently set up for tennis. Playground equipment from "Playgrounds for Free" will be set up in the park early this summer. Dansbury Park in East Stroudsburg is comprised of 19 acres. The park includes a olympic-size swimming pool, a playground, tennis and basketball courts, softball, football and baseball fields, a pavilion and picnic and cooking facilities. A variety of game equipment and fields is available for the asking. The pool opens June 16. Hours will be 12:30 to 8 p.m. on weekdays and 1 to 5 p.m. on weekends. Daily fees for residents are: 10 cents for children under 13; 25 cents for children 13 to 17; and 50 cents for adults. Non-resident fees are 25 cents, 50 cents and $1 for respective age groups. A planned program of arts and crafts and sports and games is scheduled for the summer months. For example, daily arts and crafts will be provided for pre-school and elementary children from 11 a.m. to noon. Swimming lessons will be given free; tennis will be formed.

The borough office at 421-8300 can provide further information.

Hamilton and Ross Townships' residents can benefit from the Saylorburg Playground Assn. The playground has both little league and major league size baseball fields.

Playground equipment is available and picnic facilities may be added this summer. A pavilion is available to groups. Reservations may be made with Denise Kelly at 992-4729.

The Borough of Mount Pocono maintains a park behind the municipal building. Playground equipment is available. Extra "Playgrounds for Free" facilities will be installed soon. A basketball court, to be lighted soon is available. Hours for the borough's Teen Center will be announced.

Residents of Paradise Township can use the Paradise Community Center for recreation. Tennis courts should be completed early this summer. A baseball field and playground is available.

Picnic facilities are on the grounds and the "Roof" pavilion can be used. The center can be reserved by groups. Groups should call Hilda Heydt at 629-0721 or Pat Mader at 839-9182.

Special summer events include a bazaar and pancake breakfasts. A fishing day is being considered.

Stroud Township will have a summer recreation program beginning June 23. The program will be run at the Stroudsburg Middle School and Clearview Elementary School during the hours of 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. from Monday to Friday.

The program is geared for children over six years old. It is staffed by several playground instructors and director Ed Branyan. Children participate in games and crafts. Further information can be obtained from the township office at 421-3362.

The Stroudsburg Borough Park includes a pool, a playground, a kiddie pool and picnic and cooking facilities. The pool opens June 14; daily hours are 1 to 8 p.m.

Fees are: 10 cents for children under 12; 15 cents for children from 12 to 18; and 25 cents for adults. Swimming lessons will be offered in the mornings free of charge.

A planned arts and crafts and sports and games program will also be offered. Tournaments in several sports including soccer will be sponsored weekly for girls and boys.

Groups wishing to reserve the picnic area should contact the borough office at 421-5444, which can also provide more playground information. The West End Park in Gilbert is open.

The First Ward Park in Stroudsburg is maintained by Monroe County. A wading pool is available; playground and picnic facilities are offered. Additional "Playgrounds for Free" equipment will be installed in June.

The West End Park in Gilbert is also maintained by the county. The seven-acre park includes a pool, playground, picnic facilities and nature trails. The pool will open June 14; hours will be from noon to 7 p.m. daily. Swimming lessons will be offered in the mornings.

An arts and crafts and sports and games program will be offered in the West End and First Ward parks; the schedules have not yet been set. For further information, persons can call the Parks and Recreation Commission at 421-2871.

Tobyhanna Township maintains the Blanche D. Price Memorial Park in Pocono Pines.

The park includes a pool, tennis courts, a playground, picnic facilities and a main center.

The pool opens June 7. Sunday hours are noon to 8 p.m.; Saturday hours, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and weekday hours, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Individual daily fees are 50 cents for children under 16 and $1 for adults. Season memberships are $20 for a family and $10 for individuals.

To reserve the park center, persons should call Eugene Miller at 646-2461.

Problem hard to detect

New program tests infants' hearing

By PATRICK YOUNG
Dow Jones-Ottaway News
DENVER — Hearing loss, even a severe impairment, is difficult to spot in newborns. And parents generally take hearing for granted, often failing to notice a problem for a long time as a child grows. Yet hearing the sounds around him is vital to an infant's intellectual and emotional development. "The crucial period for language development is the first two years of life," says Marion Downs, director of clinical audiology at the University of Colorado Medical Center and a pioneer in infant audiology. "Sixty per cent of our language abilities are developed by the time we start to talk. Therefore, we have to get to these children or there is a permanent language retardation."

And that's exactly what they're doing here at the medical center, where a fitting motto for the innovative newborn hearing testing program would be: "Get 'em young." Every infant born here, or transferred here, is checked. The aim is not only to detect infants born with hearing loss, but to identify those who have a high risk of developing hearing problems in the first few years of life. And by using volunteers, testing costs are held to a minimum — an average of $1.86 per baby last year. Severe or total hearing loss occurs in about one in every 1,500 newborns. But research here shows that about one in every 600 suffers from a hearing loss serious enough to hamper language development. And thus the program's importance.

"It's been demonstrated in national surveys that children whose hearing loss is discovered early have better language development," says

Mrs. Downs. "No matter what the degree of deafness, we can get some kind of help to him."

That help, depending on the severity and type of hearing problem, may be hearing aids, speech therapy, sign language, and, rarely, surgery. But the problem remains, as it has for years, in catching the hearing difficulty early.

Meanwhile some researchers wondered if they could predict which children had a high risk of suffering hearing loss. Putting together physical and genetic findings, they developed "high risk" criteria, sets of conditions that carried an increased danger of hearing problems. One condition was the failure to respond to noise while asleep.

The high-risk concept proved so successful here and in Nebraska, California, and Israel that the joint committee on hearing recommended late last year that audiometers again be used in screening newborns, in conjunction with other high-risk criteria.

The three-part testing procedure is not complicated and is done here entirely by volunteers. First, the mother is questioned to determine if there is a family history of hearing loss in young children and whether she had German measles or was exposed to the disease during pregnancy.

"These three factors are usually progressive, and a hearing loss may not show up until the child is two years old," says audiologist Donna Lutz, the testing program's coordinator.

Next, with the mother's consent, the baby's medical record is checked for certain physical conditions, among them a birth weight of 3.3 pounds or less, an exchange blood transfusion because of jaundice at birth, abnormal formation of the head or trunk and meningitis.

Finally the baby's hearing is checked.

If the baby fails the hearing test or has any of the physical problems checked for, or if the mother answers "yes" to any of the three questions put to her, the child is considered to be at high-risk.

"This doesn't necessarily mean the baby has a hearing loss, or will develop one," says Mrs. Lutz. "The child may never have a hearing loss, but at least we're making the mother aware of a problem that could develop."

Backyard can be made playground

STROUDSBURG — A playground doesn't have to be a municipal area set aside for fun and games — a backyard can be a playground.

Parents can create such playgrounds for their children with inexpensive materials and a little imagination.

Tires, logs, rope and sand are only some of the materials that can be used to produce a backyard haven for kids. Many of the materials can be obtained at no cost — tires, for instance.

Swings can be made from tires and rope, a practice almost as old as that of having children. There are some new variations on the old theme, however.

"Playgrounds for Free," a program devised by Paul Hogan, and under sponsorship of the Pennsylvania Department of Community Affairs, suggests cutting a tire out to form handles and a seat for younger children to swing in.

Tires don't have to be hung in the position in which they appear on a car. They may be hung crosswise. A board may be put between two tire swings for an extra added attraction.

The cardinal rule in making swings is making sure the supports, whether tree or lumber, are strong enough for the swing. Also, kids should be swinging over a soft surface — dirt, sand, sawdust — not over blacktop.

Sandboxes are also relatively easy and inexpensive to make.

Old utility poles can be used to form a sandbox. The poles can be held together with steel strapping and nails, suggests "Playgrounds for Free." Utility poles — if they can be found these days — can be used for bridges, swings, rollers and animals.

The Penn State Extension Service recommends building a sandbox with lumber — sized two by 10 by 10. If you don't want to purchase sand, topsoil might be considered. Plastic over the box should keep it dry.

The extension service also reminds parents that maintenance is needed for summer playthings — like bikes. Secondhand two or three wheel transportation might be considered for the kids.

Several of the "Playgrounds for Free" ideas, created mainly for large playgrounds and scaled down here, will be reality in four parks in Monroe County. High Acres Park in Barrett Township, Schull Park in Delaware Water Gap, the Borough of Mount Pocono's park, and the First Ward Park in Stroudsburg.

Western club gives funds

EFFORT — The Western Pocono Junior Woman's Club distributed $950 to area concerns at its May meeting.

Donations are as follows: $100 to the Western Pocono Community Library; $250 to the West End Park Commission for toddler swings; $200 to the Polk Fire Co.; $200 to the Primary Care Wing of the General Hospital of Monroe County; $100 for a scholarship for a Pleasant Valley School District student; and $100 to the "LD" class in the Pleasant Valley schools.

The club previously donated $200 to fire victims in the area. Joanna Pritzlaff of Intermediate Unit 20 presented a program on learning disabilities to the club. She is a teacher in the Stroudsburg schools.

The club congratulated Mrs. Eugene Mackes and Mrs.

Louis Herfurth, co-chairwomen of the Bike Hike for the Retarded, for the success of the hike. The hike brought in over $4,000 for the Pennsylvania Association of Retarded Citizens (PARC).

A plaque will be presented to Monroe County Commissioner Arlington Martin, honorary chairman of the hike, by the club.

Officers for the coming club year are: Mrs. Wayne Smith, president; Mrs. Eugene Mackes, vice president; Mrs. Thomas Hare, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Louis Herfurth, recording secretary; and Mrs. R. Barry Mackes, treasurer.

The club will hold a family picnic sometime this summer.

The junior women's thrift shop, "This 'n' That" will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday during the summer. The shop is in Gilbert.

The next board meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. June 9 at the home of Mrs. Smith.

Hair as a clue to health

For a long time it has been suspected that fine details of a person's hair may give significant clues to their health.
More and more it is recognized that the structure of hair and its growth may be of diagnostic importance.

Dr. Algie C. Brown, of Emory University, has been studying hair with electron microscopes and with special chemical techniques, because he believes that hair can be a sensitive index of metabolic disorders.

Hairs are taken from various parts of the body and studied for thickness, shape and unusual variations.
Such intensive work may reveal important contributions to health that previously have been overlooked.

It was once believed that only middle-aged and elderly people developed chronic changes in the lungs from tobacco. Now, a group of doctors at St. Luke's Hospital in Cleveland have found definite changes in the lungs and bronchial tubes of young smokers.
Dr. Dennis Niewoehner and his co-workers warn young smokers that they are not as free from problems as was formerly thought.

Unfortunately, changes in the lungs, once established, are rarely reversible. And these changes may lay the groundwork for debilitating chronic bronchitis and emphysema in later years.

A new method has been devised to measure the exact amount of blood that is ejected from the heart with each beat. Dr. Michael B. Herman, of the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York, believes his technique may be of great value in finding coronary artery disease and may be useful in complex heart surgery.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... The edges of bathtubs don't make safe seats. Special seats can be attached to the tub to prevent slipping and severe injuries.

Wyckoff's Wyckoff Shopper

"June is bustin' out all over . . . all over 'the meadow and the hill . . ."; but the waning days of May saw some national "happenings" that, to my mind's eye, certainly drew some parallels with Wyckoff's!

The auspicious opening of the new $7-million dollar Lehman Wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City and the winning of the Stanley Cup by the fantastic Philadelphia Flyers! Now, I CAN hear you ask, "What in the world do those two 'events' have to do with Wyckoff's?" It's easy to see the similarities, especially if you were a guest at our Founder's Day Luncheon last Wednesday a week ago that honored Ernest Wyckoff who humbly, but with delightful wit and humor, accepted the dozen or more presentations with grace and charm . . . and remembered at one point of the afternoon how Wyckoff's had "skated on thin ice" back during the Depression years! With a fervent belief in the country, and with the "help of friends," we "pulled through" . . . a "winner," and today celebrate 100 years of merchandising with pride in the achievement! (And no Kate Smith to sing us to victory either!) No wonder we can share the exaltation of the Philadelphians . . . we've "been there"!!!!

Since 1938, our Keystone Room has been the "showcase" for some of the most accomplished artists in the area. We felt we were "silent guests" several weeks ago when Don Johnson, a "many-time winner" of the Wyckoff Art Show, accepted the thanks of President Gerald Ford and Mrs. Ford at ceremonies in the White House when his "official portrait" of President Ford was unveiled before an assemblage of friends and family! We have puffed with pride at the acceptance of Justin McCarthy, Jack Savitsky, and Dorothy and Dorothy Strauser to the permanent collection of the American Folk Art Museum . . . and we have felt the self same excitement again each year when we present our exhibit in the Keystone Room! Right now in the Keystone Room . . . an absolutely marvelous showing of photographic genius by amateur and professional talent . . . in black and white and color . . . and you must NOT miss it!!! It is a "first," presented by Creative Camera Photo Club . . . and the prints can be ordered . . . and if you have EVER doubted that photography can be art . . . SEE this show! The appeal is endless . . . children, pets, scenes of the seasons . . . panoramic vistas . . . people . . . and PEOPLE like our own Brian Heller and Bryden Taylor are among those honored by the judges. Indeed . . . "June IS bustin' out all over" . . . in New York City . . . in Philadelphia AND in Stroudsburg!!!! Come share it with us TODAY at Wyckoff's!!!!

Elementary students to ride for hospital

EAST STROUDSBURG — Seventh and eighth grade students at the Bunnell School in East Stroudsburg will take to their bicycles June 3 to raise money for the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Students are taking pledges of money for every mile they ride during the day-long bicycle marathon Tuesday, spurred by the thought of winning a 10-speed bicycle and other prizes.

Residents are being asked to sponsor a student by pledging from one to 50 cents a mile, said Jack Shoemaker, health and physical education teacher at the Bunnell School and bike-a-thon organizer.

Students will ride a one-mile course in the flats section of East Stroudsburg. Shoemaker said teachers will be stationed at intersections to check the progress of the riders.

Following assemblies featuring films and lectures on bicycle safety, maintenance and touring by the chief of East Stroudsburg Police and others, students will hit the pavement to raise money for the hospital. Shoemaker said the school has hired a caterer to provide a picnic lunch in the high school football stadium for the students.

Four prizes will be awarded at 2:40 p.m. to the boy or girl in each grade who rode the most miles.

During the following week, a 10-speed bicycle will be given to the student who gathered the most money.

Shoemaker said police, the mayor of East Stroudsburg, the Monroe County Cooperative Extension Service's youth agent and the Monroe County Recreation and Park Commission have helped organize the bike-a-thon.

Marilyn Albert

Mt. Pocono student recognized

MOUNT POCONO — The Rotary Club of Mount Pocono has selected Marilyn Albert as the Youth of the Month from the Pocono Mountain High School.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Albert of Mountainhome.

Miss Albert has maintained a "B" average in the school honors program and ranks in the upper third of her class.

Her school activities include band, chorus, and make-up staff for school musicals and plays. She has also served as band secretary, as business manager for musicals and as a member of the yearbook staff.

She has been accepted at Misericordia College for the fall semester and she plans a career in nursing.

Youth choir sings

CANADENSIS — The youth choir of the Canadensis United Methodist Church will hold a concert at 10:45 a.m. Sunday at the church. The concert, under the direction of Mrs. Rena Nauman, will take the place of Sunday services. The choir is composed of junior and high school students.

ECHOS radio members broadcasting better image

By BRUCE POSTEN

Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — ECHOS can be heard for a 150 mile radius in Monroe County, but that's the legal limit.

Those with bellowing voices don't have to worry, though, because the law only pertains to civilian band (CB) radio operators or members of Emergency Communication Help and Organized Search (ECHOS).

An emergency communications group, ECHOS has been in existence for the past three years and is designed to aid county and municipal officials with traffic control, flood disasters, emergencies and parades.

Growth

According to Rick Rarick, ECHOS vice president, the club has grown over the years and now boasts a membership of 76 units (persons).

"It's not a social club and members have to be dedicated," Rarick emphasized.

"We're on 24 hour call and we expect people to respond when they are needed," he added.

In the past, the ECHOS have assisted the local civil defense office during Hurricane Agnes, rescue calls, the flood emergency in the county last December and yearly civil defense drills.

Last project

"Our last big project was assisting East Stroudsburg police with traffic control during the Memorial Day Parade. We had CB operators all along the parade route reporting on conditions and keeping traffic flowing," Rarick said.

ECHOS members also assisted the Pocono Mountains Jaycees during their recent "Walk For Mankind."

"There were check points all along the route with ECHOS units. We were able to call for ambulances or give assistance to any of the participants when the need was there," Rarick said.

Although dedication is one requirement for club membership, Rarick notes that potential members must also be "radio buffs" and be prepared to make a hefty financial commitment.

In the club, each member must supply his own CB radio, antennae, class D license and pay a $3 membership fee.

Rarick estimated that it would cost over $200 to be a completely equipped ECHO, and that doesn't include the wear and tear on an individual's car.

Dedication and finances can be a problem for ECHOS, but to be called "a nuisance" is probably the unkindest cut of all.

Rarick indicated that rumors were circulated recently labeling the club a nuisance during emergencies. According to Rarick, the club decided to send letters to all municipalities asking if they "wanted anything to do with the club."

The Jack and Jills meet the second and fourth Tuesday of the month, not on Fridays as reported in The Record.

Eligibility requirements to receive supplemental security income were incorrectly stated in Thursday's Record, according to Ray Little, manager of the local social security office. To be eligible, a person 65 years of age or older living alone must receive $166 or less a month in income in June and have resources under $1,500. A new monthly income limit of $177.70 will take effect in July.

Bicycle inspections in Barrett Township will be offered from 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays, and 6-8 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays beginning today and continuing through June at the Barrett Township Police Station in Mountainhome. The Record incorrectly reported the schedule.

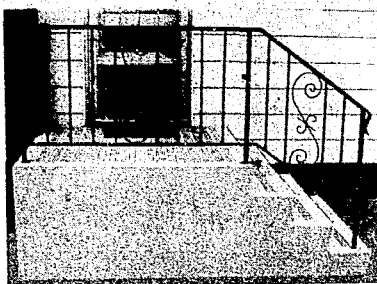

In Friday's Record, under hospital notes, the birth of a daughter was incorrectly reported. The daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ken Leong, not Mr. and Mrs. Ken Shirley.

Write to know

The people in The Pocono Record's circulation area have a "Write to Know" — and The Record will try to provide the answers in the "Write to Know" column. The column is designed to answer any questions or solve any problems — consumer, government or anything else. Send questions to "Write to Know," The Pocono Record, 511 Lenox St., Stroudsburg, Pa. 18360. Questions must be in writing and signed in full. No telephone calls, please.

Q. In the beginning of January, I took my cassette tape player to a local tape shop to be repaired. The owner sent it away to be repaired and said it would take a month. Two weeks later his shop burned down. He has now opened a new shop and it's been five months since I took in the player and still haven't received it. Can you help?

J.R., Henryville

A. Producing the receipt would do a lot to alleviate the problem. The shop owner said he can't do anything until you show your receipt. He can't trace the machine without it because his records were lost in the fire which destroyed his other shop. Once you produce the receipt, there should not be any problems in finding the tape player.

Q. I sent away for four eight-track tapes from Records-Tapes Unlimited on Jan. 24, 1975. I received two of the tapes, but not the others. Can you find out what is taking so long?

P.C., Tobyhanna

A. If you had included your account number, it would have speeded along the process. Since you didn't, the company will now have to slowly check its computer to trace your order. Expect reply in the mail.

Aside to J.N., Kresgeville: We'll hold your letter to Panasonic to give the company a chance to correct the problem. If they comply with your request, let us know. If two weeks pass and you're still having trouble, drop us another line and we'll pursue the matter further.

Q. Can you tell me if Audio Warehouse Sales in Washington, D.C. is a rip-off? Either way, how can I get my money back from orders I haven't received?

C.B., East Stroudsburg

A. According to the Washington, D.C. Better Business Bureau, Audio Warehouse Sales has been subject to complaints in the past, but all have been of a routine nature. Their past track record indicates that if you contact the firm, they'll straighten things out for you.

Aside to T.G., Stroudsburg: Expect a letter from Liggett and Meyers Inc., Durham, N.C. which should help you receive your bag and belt embroidery kit.

Aside to P.C., Stroudsburg: We must have the proper name of the record company if you expect us to help you. "Faith and Inspiration" is not sufficient information.

Aside to C.F., Henryville: TV Guide informed us your subscription will be corrected, effective with the June 21 issue, and full-term service will be provided.

Aside to A.G., Stroudsburg: Crown-Castle has sent you a refund check for $7.30 in place of the book you never received.

Q. I wrote to "Write To Know" last fall in regards to bonds which belonged to my mother. I was able to redeem some of the bonds, but am still having trouble collecting on the bonds from the Tri-State Bible Conference. I wrote to the Rev. Robert Meisky, but have had no answer. What can I do?

H.M., Baleslee

A. We contacted Rev. Meisky and are happy to report a check for the bonds is on its way to you.

Aside to B.D., Stroudsburg: Earthlight Supply, 47 Washington St., East Stroudsburg has corn grinders priced at $21.95.

Q. I would like to buy a handle to lift the lids off my old wood-burning stove. Can you help me?

J.V., New Providence, N.J.

A. We'll print your request and see if any readers can find what you're looking for.

Q. I sent to the Federal Communications Commission in Gettysburg for a citizens band license in January. I received my canceled check, but not my license. I sent a letter to the FCC, along with a copy of my canceled check, to find out the reason for the delay, but have not heard anything. Can you help me?

E.G.R., Pocono Lake

A. The FCC's office in Gettysburg confirmed it issued call letters to you on January 31. The office had no explanation for the delay in your license, but said it would promptly issue a duplicate.

$870,000 cutback astonishes ESSC

By FLIP DeLUCA
Pocono Record Reporter
EAST STROUDSBURG

The students will be the ultimate losers when East Stroudsburg State College (ESSC) complies with a state request to slash $870,000 from its budget for the 1976-77 academic year.

"Good Lord," responded Dr. William Hein, vice president of academic affairs when told Friday of the proposed decrease. "None of our estimates were that high."

"We have cut and cut and cut for the last three years and there's no place to go," Hein said.

State Education Secretary John Pittenger has asked the presidents of 14 state colleges to notify him by June 30 how they can cut a total of $16.6 million from the 1976-77 academic year budget.

Hein said the difficulty of the task depends on if the state means $870,000 less than next year's budget or $870,000 less than last year's operating budget.

He said the 1975-76 budget was increased by about 10 percent to cover inflation so if the cut was based on that figure, "We won't be too bad off."

However, if the state wants the budget to be $870,000 less than the $12 million 1974-75 budget, "Then we're in trouble."

The $13.3 million budget proposed for the coming school year is expected to be cut by $717,000.

Hein said a reduction in the number of faculty members would reduce student services and the number of students able to attend the college.

Hein said the state has given the college a proposal for re-trenchment of teachers but that it did not say what the goal was. He said any teachers who are being laid off for the 1976-77 school year must receive notice by Sept. 8. It is too late to lay off teachers for the coming year.

When faculty members are laid off, the college, not the state, is responsible for paying unemployment compensation.

Hein said the problem with the state proposed cutback is that all the colleges are suffering because of poor fiscal management by a few. "This college has been operating beautifully. We have everything a college should have."

"What this really does is reward inefficiency and punish those who operate efficiently. It's absolutely mad."

Budget cuts requested at other colleges are: Lock Haven and Cheyney, $670,000 each; Indiana State University, $1.9 million; Bloomsburg, Clarion and Kutztown, $1,070,000 each; Mansfield, $870,000; California, Millersville and Shippensburg, $1,270,000 each; Edinboro and Slippery Rock, $1,470,000 each; and West Chester, $1,670,000.

Hospital stays being measured

EAST STROUDSBURG — A program to review the length of a patient's hospital stay was approved by the state department of health, the Board of Directors of the General Hospital of Monroe County learned Thursday night.

The Utilization Review Plan (URP) was one of the first federally and state required plans to be approved among Pennsylvania's 200 hospitals.

URP is a program to review the length of a patient's hospital stay in an effort to prevent patients from staying longer than necessary.

Hospital administrator Charles Swisher said Friday this doesn't mean anyone will be told they must leave the hospital but that Medicare, Medicaid or Blue Cross will not pay for the extra days.

He added it costs the taxpayers over $96 a day for each additional day a Medicaid patient stays in the hospital.

The Utilization Review Committee is composed of doctors, a medical records employee, a social services worker and representatives from the controller and administrator.

The full committee meets monthly while subcommittees meet weekly. A patient's admission to the hospital is reviewed within 48 hours of his admission.

Swisher explained that a sticker indicating the average hospital stay for that medical problem is placed on the patient's records.

"It's cookbook medicine," he said.

If special circumstances do not warrant an extended stay, the matter is brought to the attention of the attending physician, Swisher explained.

Within the last six months this has only occurred twice.

In other business, Dr. Frank Dracos was unanimously elected to the Board of Directors to complete the term of Dr. John R. Wildrick of Portland.

Three hurt in two-car accident

MARSHALLS CREEK — Three people were treated at the General Hospital of Monroe County following a two-car crash at the intersection of Routes 209 and 402 at 8:40 p.m. Friday.

Treated at the hospital were Virey Kapadia, six, and Manisha Kapadia, eight, of Crumlyne, and Mrs. Gertrude Walter, 59, of Chipperfield Terrace, Stroudsburg.

State police at Swiftwater said a car driven by Har Shadir Kapadia, 35, Crumlyne, tried to cross Rte. 209 onto Rte. 402 and was struck on the right side by a car driven by Heinz Walter, 54, of Chipperfield Terrace.

Court rules on search for shrine

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A Harrisburg judge has ruled that the Veterans' Administration can proceed with test diggings for a national cemetery at Valley Forge.

Charles Lucas, VA spokesman in Washington, D.C. said Friday the court overruled an injunction obtained by a Valley Forge historical society.

Other sites under consideration for the 750-acre national cemetery and shrine are Gouldsboro State Park, Allenwood, and Ft. Necessity.

Milford state police extend lease

MILFORD — Even though their lease expires today, Pike County's state police are still in Milford and they probably won't budge for the next 90 to 120 days until construction of a new facility is completed at Lords Valley, Blooming Grove Township.

The status of the county's state police contingent has changed several times over the past two months, causing residents to petition state officials in protest of any planned removal of troopers to central barracks in Dunmore.

Now, a new set of plans calls for state police to stay at their Milford location on a month by month lease basis, according to Robert Zinski, state police fiscal officer in Harrisburg.

After an agreement had been reached two weeks ago between KMR Associates of Lords Valley and the state's Bureau of Property and Supplies, state police had planned to operate out of a mobile command center on the Lords Valley site.

"As I understand it now, we are in the negotiation process to lease the Milford facility on a month by month basis until a new structure can be built," Zinski explained.

"We would have only used the mobile units if we had to get out by June 1," he said.

Davis Chant, owner of the Milford barracks, said he received a monthly lease agreement from state police Thursday and will agree to the conditions.

"The lease confirms a verbal agreement we had all along," Chant said.

"There really was no problem between state police and me. For awhile they didn't think they were going to have a new facility and they didn't want to pay me any more rent," Chant explained.

Chant said he bought the Milford building three years ago when the state police were housed in the structure under a 10-year lease agreement.

State police paid $1.90 a square foot for the 1,632 square foot building during the 10-year period. Under the new monthly lease agreement, they will pay $2.50 a square foot.

Chant said he feels the increased rental is in line with what state police will have to pay to lease a new facility in Lords Valley.

The new facility is planned as a 2,500 square foot structure at a cost of $3.25 a square foot. According to a state police spokesman, bids for the new barracks have still not been awarded. It is expected, however, that KMR Associates will be awarded the project.

Second PennDOT appeal hampers bridge repair

EAST STROUDSBURG — Motorists expecting an end to the nerve-jangling experience of driving over the pot-hole marred railroad bridge on Ridgeway Street in East Stroudsburg are in for a disappointment.

Due to an appeal filed by the state Department of Transportation, the bridge will not be repaired by the June 1 deadline imposed by the state Public Utilities Commission Jan. 20.

In their 5-1 decision, PUC commissioners ordered repairs completed by June 1, and the costs split between parties involved in the complaint filed by the East Stroudsburg borough council.

PennDOT was ordered to pay 40 percent, or $12,000; the railroad 30 percent, or $9,000; Monroe County 20 percent, or $6,000 and the Borough of East Stroudsburg 10 percent, $3,000.

PennDOT was ordered to do the rehabilitation work on the bridge, including repairs to the deck, sidewalk, drainage pipes and abutments. The railroad will paint all exposed structural steel.

Once repairs are done, the state will maintain the roadway and the railroad will be responsible for maintaining the sub and superstructure of the bridge.

PennDOT already filed one appeal, which was thrown out by the PUC.

The borough first filed a formal complaint with the PUC in May, 1974 after several years of unsuccessful attempts to have the railroad or the state fix the dilapidated roadway.

Borough manager Donald Gage said the borough is waiting for the PUC to rule on the second appeal.

Ice plant repairs completed

STROUDSBURG — Repairs on the former ice plant on N. Second Street have been completed in time to meet the May 30 deadline, according to Stanley Melvin, zoning and codes enforcement officer.

The deadline had been set by District Magistrate Graden Praetorius of Stroudsburg at a May 6 hearing.

Ice plant owner Albert P. Nehme of Scranton had received a citation from Melvin for failure to alleviate unsafe conditions by an April 14 deadline.

According to Melvin, the two end walls have been removed, as well as some loose bricks. The area around the ice plant was cleaned up and the doorways secured.

Melvin said Nehme's contractor informed him a back wall found to be unstable will be removed next week, as well as some equipment left over from the time when the ice plant was in operation.

He also said an exterior canopy will be braced up temporarily until it can also be removed.

Nehme has said he plans to remodel the former ice plant into office space.

Flood protection available

STROUDSBURG — Fourteen of the county's 20 municipalities still haven't accepted Federal Flood Relief Insurance.

Senator Hugh Scott has asked the county commissioners to remind the municipalities they are still eligible for the federal insurance.

The municipalities which haven't applied for the insurance as of March 3 are Barrett Township, Delaware Water Gap, Eldred, Hamilton, Jackson and Middle Smithfield Townships, Mount Pocono, Poik, Pocono, Price, Ross, Tobyhanna, Tunkhannock and West Hemlock Townships.

County commissioner Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis said the commissioners have been asked to use their influence to support the program "since the county is flood prone."

She added there is a pattern of flooding in December and June.

The federal insurance first became available three years ago after the flooding caused by Hurricane Agnes and was explained in public meetings.

"But some of the municipalities feel they can't go in now because they don't like some of the stipulations," Mrs. Shukaitis said.

East Stroudsburg borough manager Donald Gage said one of his concerns when East Stroudsburg applied for the insurance was increasing federal control of land use.

Auto fire extinguished

STROUDSBURG — A car fire at 9:26 p.m. Friday brought out 42 men and four trucks from the Stroudsburg Fire Co. to Ninth Street but the fire was out before they arrived.

EAT 'EM UP — Papillon Construction Co. demolished buildings on the corner of Seventh and Main Sts., Stroudsburg Thursday and Friday on property owned by United Penn Bank. A bank officer said future plans for the property are uncertain. (Staff photo by Brian Heller)

ALL EYES — The four eyes peering through the bars belong to two of several kittens available for adoption at the Monroe County SPCA on Wild Animal Farm Road. Most of them are about eight weeks old.

Klaus cheerleader instructor

LEESBURG, Fla. — Bruno Klaus, East Stroudsburg State College gymnastics coach, has been named an instructor at the American Cheerleaders Association Summer Camp.

Klaus will teach sessions at the camp's national headquarters in Leesburg. He will bring members of his staff from the International Gymnastics Academy to help him.

The former NCAA gymnastics champion has served as a judge for the Miss Cheerleader U.S.A. contest which was held at Florida's Cypress Gardens.

He has coached at ESSC for six seasons with a dual meet record of 46-24. His teams won North Atlantic Gymnastics League championships in 1973 and 1974 and were runnersup in 1972 and this past season.

The American Cheerleaders Association conducts camps throughout the nation. One of the camps is listed for East Stroudsburg State College Aug. 18-22.

DON'T GET STEPPED ON — Los Angeles' Davey Lopes reaches for the bag as Cubs' first baseman Andy Thornton takes throw from second baseman Manny Trillo to double up Lopes after Bill Buckner lined to second. The game was halted in the bottom of the eighth by darkness and will be resumed today with Los Angeles holding a 3-1 lead. (UPI)

McCovey's grand slam beats Mets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie McCovey pinch hit his 16th career grand slam homer — tying the National League record — and southpaw Randy Jones posted his fifth straight win Friday night to carry the San Diego Padres to a 6-2 victory over the New York Mets.

McCovey's homer was his fifth of the year and 440th of his career. His 16 grand slams tie him with Hank Aaron for the National League record. Lou Gehrig has the major league mark of 23. It was the 11th pinch hit homer of his career, tying him for seventh place on the all-time list.

The Padres were trailing 2-0 with one out in the eighth when they broke away for six runs. John Grubb, Enzo Hernandez and Bobby Tolan hit consecutive singles with Tolan driving home Grubb for the first run. A double by Dave Winfield drove Hernandez home to tie the score at 2-2.

After an intentional walk to Mike Ivie, Mets' starter Jerry Koosman, 4-3, was replaced by reliever Bob Apodaca. At that point McCovey pinch hit for Fred Kendall and hit Apodaca's fourth pitch into the rightfield bullpen.

Klaus will teach sessions at the camp's national headquarters in Leesburg. He will bring members of his staff from the International Gymnastics Academy to help him.

Astros, 5-0

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Milt May drove in three runs with a pair of doubles Friday night to help the Houston Astros blank the Philadelphia Phillies 5-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Doug Koenieczny.

The Astros took a 1-0 lead in the first when Greg Gross singled, Roger Metzger sacrificed and May looped a double to left center. Enos Cabell doubled and scored on a Jose Cruz single to make it 2-0 in the third.

The Astros then locked it up with three in the seventh to tag Jim Lonborg, 3-3, with the loss. Gross singled to center and Metzger walked before May doubled into the leftfield corner, bringing home both runners. Cabell singled to score May with the fifth run.

Koenieczny, who was backed by three Houston double plays, struck out eight and walked only two to pick up his third victory against six defeats.

Pinch-hitter Richie Hebner led off the ninth inning with a double and pinch-hitter Ed Kirkpatrick followed with a run-scoring single Friday night to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

The triumph enabled the Pirates to move into first place in the National League East. Hebner, who last appeared for the Pirates on May 27 as a pinch-hitter, was sent up to hit for Art Howe, the man who had replaced him in the starting lineup, while Kirkpatrick batted for winning pitcher Jerry Reuss.

Reuss allowed eight hits in going the distance to even his record at 4-4 while Buzz Capra took his fourth loss in 10 decisions.

The 6-10 high school basketball star said he turned down numerous under-the-table offers from college recruiters when the Philadelphia 76ers made an offer "I couldn't refuse."

Dawkins is asking for a seven-year, no-out contract in excess of $1 million. The 76ers are expected to announce his signing at a news conference today.

Chicago attorney Herb Radey is representing the 245-pound Dawkins in his negotiations with the 76ers.

STROUDSBURG — Dean Gontz tripled and George Strunk was the winner Friday night as Gray Chevrolet outlasted Lim's, 14-9, in Stroudsburg Little League action. Brian Martin took the loss for Lim's.

Cardinals, 5-4

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Lou Brock singled in a run with one out in the ninth inning Friday night to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-4 win over Cincinnati and end the Reds' winning streak at seven games.

Mario Guerrero singled, pinch-hitter Ron Fairly also singled and Brock lined into the leftfield corner off reliever Rollie Easterick.

Pete Rose doubled off reliever Al Hrabosky to tie the game at 4-4 for Cincinnati in the ninth. With one out, Cesar Geronimo singled, pinch hitter Tony Perez walked and after St. Louis pulled starter John Curtis, Rose greeted Hrabosky with a two-run double. Hrabosky, (2-2) however, wound up the winner.

Ted Simmons' two-run bases-loaded single in the fifth inning had given the Cardinals their 4-2 lead.

Pinch-hitter Richie Hebner led off the ninth inning with a double and pinch-hitter Ed Kirkpatrick followed with a run-scoring single Friday night to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

The triumph enabled the Pirates to move into first place in the National League East. Barber's 64 gains shore of Atlanta Classic lead ATLANTA (UPI) — Miller Barber, pro golfer's often under-rated "Mr. X," fired a course record-tying 64 Friday to storm into a tie with reigning U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin for the second round lead in the "designated" Atlanta Classic.

The stocky Barber, who will celebrate his 44th birthday today, was far back on the leader board until he sank a 115-yard wedge shot for an eagle on the par four 14th hole. He and Irwin had nine-under 135s after 36 holes.

"There are par claps, birdie claps and eagle claps," said Barber. "When I heard the crowd respond to that shot, I knew it went in."

Barber still trailed Irwin by two shots but birdied the last two holes to catch the U.S. Open champ.

Irwin, who'll be 30 next Tuesday, had a scrambling three-under-par 69 with six birdies and three bogeys for a two-day total of 135.

Larry Hinson, posting a 67-137 "thanks to my new positive thinking," and long-hitting Jim Dent, with 68-138, were their closest pursuers.

"I'm not surprised that nine under is ahead of the field," said Irwin, winner of more than $80,000 this year despite finishing as high as second only once.

"The wind and changed pin placements made this a different course" than when he shot a 64 in Wednesday's pro-am and a 66 in Thursday's opening round. "It was just a different day."

But Irwin said his own play accounted for his higher score. "I did not putt as well as I did the previous two days. And I did not drive it today nearly as well as yesterday. I was in the rough too often to come up with an extremely low score."

Hinson, a former polio victim who has not won since 1969, his second year as a touring pro, was fifth two weeks ago in New Orleans and had a 66 in the first round last week at Memphis.

"I have had a complete change in attitude the past few weeks," said Hinson. "I stopped fretting about my game, and it has really improved."

England's Peter Oosterhuis also matched the course record with 64 in this $225,000 "designated" tour event, in which all leading players are obligated to play, an 8-under-par 64. But the 77 he shot Thursday left him still six strokes to Irwin's rear.

"I figured I needed a 68 to make the cut," said Oosterhuis. "When I missed three birdie putts of seven feet or shorter over the first five holes, I began to fear I wouldn't make it."

Irwin started the round tied for the lead with two-time U.S. Open champion and relative newcomer Joe Inman. Casper had a 73 Friday for a 5-under 139 that left him tied with Johnny Miller and Jerry Heard. Miller eagled the last hole for a 71 and Heard had a 68.

Gibby Gilbert had a 65 to head a group at 140 that included Nate Starks, Dale Douglass and Allen Miller. Oosterhuis and Jack Nicklaus, pre-tournament favorite to win here for the third straight year, were at 141.

Nicklaus had a 73 Friday and called off his plans to fly home to south Florida to attend his son's sixth-grade graduation. "I couldn't catch my irons solid to get close to the hole," complained Nicklaus. "What birdie putts I did have I left short."

Barber began the second round five strokes behind Irwin, Casper and Inman and was still that far behind Irwin after making the nine-hole turn in three-under—just like Irwin did.

"I don't know where that 64 came from," the balding Barber said with a wide grin. "I haven't really been playing as badly of late as it might seem. I've just been having a bad hole here and there and having trouble making up for it."

Whitworth leads LPGA by 4 shots

TOWSON, Md. (UPI) — Kathy Whitworth of Richardson, Tex., shot four birdies to take over the lead in Friday's rain-delayed second round of the $55,000 LPGA Championship with a 36-hole total of 140.

Miss Whitworth put together a steady 35-35 second round to take the lead by four strokes over sagging first round leader Debbie Austin, Donna Capone Young and Sandra Haynie, all with 144s at the halfway mark over the Pine Ridge Golf Course as the field was cut to 54.

Mrs. Young matched her first round 72 while Miss Austin slumped to 76 after an opening round 68 during the day's play, which was halted twice because of rain.

In a 3-way tie at 145 were Sandra Palmer, Pam Higgins and Penny Pulz.

"I've had grip problems but I do enjoy this course because there's a lot of variety in its 18 holes," Miss Whitworth said. "I'm pleased because I hit some good shots that were close to the hole."

At one time Miss Whitworth preferred not to be leading a tournament, but she added, "there's nothing wrong with being in first place, especially on a course that I enjoy playing. Of course, I don't feel that I'm in complete control out there."

Miss Austin wasn't the only leader to fall behind Miss Whitworth's charge. Sandra Spuzich shot a 5-over par 78 and dropped into a four-way tie with Sandra Post, JoAnn Prentice and Jane Blalock at 146.

Howell's single in ninth ends Texas losing streak

ARLINGTON (UPI) — Rookie third baseman Roy Howell, who had already driven in four runs, singled down the left field line to bring in Toby Harrah from second base with none out in the ninth inning Friday night, sparking Texas to a 6-5 win over New York that snapped a six-game Ranger losing streak.

Twice previously during the game, Howell produced two-run singles. Harrah led off the ninth off loser Sparky Lyle with a double that hit the base of the wall along the leftfield foul line.

Howell then lashed a ball just past third baseman Graig Nettles that produced the winning run.

The first four Ranger runs were also driven in by Howell, who singled in Mike Hargrove and Jim Spencer in the second and did it again in the fourth.

It was the first victory for Texas in five attempts against New York this season.

Track star Steve Prefontaine dies in auto crash

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Steve Prefontaine, America's premier distance runner, died Friday in an automobile crash hours after winning his last race and an autopsy showed he was drunk at the time of the accident.

Assistant Lane County Medical Examiner Edward Wilson said the former University of Oregon star's alcohol level measure in the blood stream was .16 of one per cent.

Oregon law says a person with a level of .10 per cent is regarded as intoxicated, and a level of .15 per cent or higher is considered a criminal offense.

A colorful and controversial figure, Prefontaine, 24, was alone in his sports model convertible when the car, police said, veered over the center line of a Eugene street, jumped a curb, smashed into a rock embankment and flipped over, pinning him partially beneath the vehicle.

Dr. Wilson said Prefontaine's death was caused by a form of suffocation. He said the athlete's chest was compressed by the weight of the car making it impossible for him to breathe.

"He couldn't have lived for more than a minute under those circumstances, and he suffered no other injuries that would have caused his death themselves," he said.

A memorial service has been scheduled for Monday in the Marshfield High School football and track stadium, where Prefontaine began his fabulous track career as a prep sensation in Coos Bay, his hometown on the Oregon coast. A member of the family said, "He ran in Eugene, but he will be buried in Coos Bay."

Prefontaine's death came only a few hours after a track meet featuring his victory over Frank Shorter, his friend and Olympic marathon gold medalist, and a group of stars from Finland. It was a time when after the meet he was saying farewell to the Finns. He had been known to drink a few beers with fellow competitors following a meet.

On Thursday night, he ran in the final of a series of informal meets held in this area, featuring Prefontaine and a number of stars from Finland. He won the 5,000 meters, coming within one and a half seconds of his own American record.

A graduate of the University of Oregon in 1974, and an Olympic runner in 1972, Prefontaine had raced to fame in virtually every long distance track event. He held the American records in the 3,000 meters, two miles, three miles, 5,000 meters, six miles and 10,000 meters.

At Munich in 1972, he finished fourth in the 5,000 meters, but the scene at Munich had left him disenchanted with the Olympics, and especially with the American Athletic Union amateur code and the effect it had on international competition.

Claiming other nations held an advantage because of subsidization, his stand was a controversial one in the track world, where he often took the AAU to task because he believed its standards outmoded.

"I'm not very ecstatic about the 1976 Olympics," he had said recently, but those who knew him believed he probably would give it another try.

He had said Thursday night after his race in which he beat Frank Shorter that he would argue with the AAU over its rules against running in races so many days before an AAU event in which he might compete. "If they don't let me go and run where I want to this summer," he had said, "Then I just may not compete in the national AAU event here."

He said being the best distance runner in America was one thing, but to be the best in the world "was a fulltime job."

"That's impossible," he said. "I've got bills to pay. I'm just like any other American. If I don't pay my electric bill, they turn off my lights.

"I'm just facing facts. After college, our athletes are turned out to pasture. We have no Olympic program in this country. It's as simple as that. No sports medicine, no camps, no nothing. I'm not talking about subsidizing us. I'm just talking about a national plan. I want to see some interest from somebody. In the past, we've set back and let our natural talent do it. Well, the rest of the world has caught up."

He also said recently: "The Olympics are not the big dream they were before I went to Munich. My dream was shattered there. All the political stuff ... the Russian-American basketball game, the Arab shootings. It was pretty disheartening."

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Prefontaine, and a sister.

Knicks sign McGinnis to 6-year, $2M contract

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks acquired a scoring champion and boosted their image where it counts — at the box office — Friday when they signed George McGinnis to a six-year, $2 million contract.

The 6-8, 235-pound McGinnis is the first step general manager Eddie Donovan made in securing a forward with the rebounding potential of a Dave DeBusschere and the scoring touch of a Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. McGinnis won the 1974-75 American Basketball Association scoring title with a 29.8 average.

Shrewdly, McGinnis negotiated a two-year contract with the ABA's Indiana Pacers last year that carried an option allowing him to buy out of the pact for $85,000 if he made a deal elsewhere. He picked up some loose change by leading them to the playoff finals, where they lost to Kentucky.

There are still circumstances that may have legal ramifications before the Knicks can feel secure about McGinnis' signing. Philadelphia holds the NBA draft rights to the talented forward and it's felt the Knicks must come up with a reasonable return to the 76ers to prevent a court suit.

The 76ers immediately labeled the signing as "piracy" and said the acquisition was "in flagrant violation of our NBA draft rights and the constitution and bylaws of the NBA." The club asked the commissioner's office and other team owners "for your support in preserving our rights against piracy and to insure all league rules apply equally to all member clubs."

"The Knicks have acted at their own peril and now must be prepared to take the consequences."

McGinnis had gone to federal court here for an injunction against the NBA contending that no team could dictate where he plays pro basketball. He withdrew his complaint, however, before a hearing could be held Friday morning.

"We signed McGinnis a few minutes before midnight last night," said Mike Burke, president of the Knicks, "and this morning we advised the NBA office and the Philadelphia club of our action."

Burke said he did not know if 76er owner Irv Kosloff "could interfere with this agreement, but we are prepared to negotiate with Philadelphia. Our attorneys also inform us that the 76ers drafted McGinnis in 1973 and had ample time to sign him, but lately made no efforts to negotiate with George."

Donovan, who showed the Knicks an easy road to their first NBA championship in 1970 when as Knick GM he traded Walt Bellamy to Detroit for DeBusschere, said he was pleased to have McGinnis with the club. Eddie then took a similar post with Buffalo, wheeling and dealing the Braves into the playoffs.

"He's a bright, intelligent young man who wants to be part of our team. He's unselfish on the court and fills our need for a strong rebounding forward."

McGinnis said he signed with New York "for purely economic reasons and the Knicks are the only team I want to play on in the NBA."

"I'm aware I'll have to make changes. My impression of a basketball team is that the center is the heart of the operation. The other four players revolve around the pivotman."

Soccer sign-up today

STROUDSBURG — The Greater Pocono Youth Instructional Soccer League will hold registration from noon until 3 p.m. today at the Monroe County YMCA in Stroudsburg.

A fee of $3.50 is required to cover the cost of insurance and registration to the United States Soccer Federation.

At the registration each child will be given a copy of Soccer Monthly magazine and will view an introductory soccer film made by superstar Pele.

Tee-shirts will be provided by the league as uniforms.

The league will begin play on Saturday, August 2 and will run through October. All games will be at the Stroudsburg Sports Camp.

The league's board of directors consists of Dale Marsh, president; Ron Quinn, vice-president; Mark Williams, secretary; Stan Lee, treasurer; Ken Mann, games commissioner and registration chairman; and Sandy Phillips, Jack Barras, and Kurt Keller, executive committee.

Weekly league meetings will be held each Thursday at 9:30 p.m. at the YMCA. Interested persons are invited to attend.

Pocono Mountain banquet tonight

SWIFTWATER — Pocono Mountain High School will hear featured guest speaker Tubby Raymond, head football coach at the University of Delaware, when the school holds its annual athletic awards banquet tonight at the school.

The affair will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Raymond is one of just two College Division coaches ever to win Kodak's Coach of the Year award twice, winning the award in 1971 and 1972. Wittenberg's Bill Edwards previously won the award in 1962 and 1963.

Raymond has earned a nine-year Delaware coaching record of 70-25 and has seven straight seasons above the .500 level. The Blue Hens were 10-1 in 1971 and won a national championship and then followed with a perfect 10-0 in 1972, making it two straight national College Division crowns.

Delaware won Middle Atlantic Conference titles in 1966, 1968 and 1969 and Lambert Cups and NCAA regional crowns in the Boardwalk Bowl in 1968, 1969 and 1970. A fourth straight victory came in 1971 over C.W. Post.

He is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the American Football Coaches Association.

Wilson, Radocha earn all-conference honors

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dave Wilson of East Stroudsburg State College was the only repeat selection on the All-Pennsylvania Conference Eastern Division baseball team announced Friday.

Wilson was chosen as a designated hitter, a role he handled after suffering an ankle injury in mid-season. He was chosen as the all-star first baseman last year.

The 6-4, 225-pound senior led the Warriors in batting with a .375 average which included four doubles, three triples and three home runs. He was the team leader in runs-batted-in with 15 in 17 games.

The Warriors had one other first team selection in third baseman Pete Radocha, who is only a sophomore. Radocha batted .328 with a late-season eight game hitting streak.

Two ESSC players, senior catcher John Varacallo and junior outfielder Jim Moore, made the second team. Varacallo also was a second team choice last season.

The 12 conference coaches picked both an Eastern and a Western Division team. Each of the coaches rated his own players in order and then voted for players on the other conference teams.

CRASH VICTIM — Steve Prefontaine, who was killed in a car crash early Friday, held a number of American distance records. Here he's shown winning the 3,000 meters in the record time of 7:44.2 at the Oslo Invitational in 1972. (UPI)

Ramirez upsets top-seeded Borg

ROME (UPI) — Mexico's Raul Ramirez methodically blasted defending champion and top-seeded Bjorn Borg off the court in straight sets Friday, 6-4, 6-3, to gain the semifinals of the Italian International Tennis championships.

Chris Evert, the world's top-ranked women player, smashed Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia, 6-2, 6-0, in less than an hour to gain the finals in the women's singles.

In other men's quarterfinal action, America's last two hopes in the men's play were ousted. Manuel Orantes of Spain, the fourth seed, knocked out fifth-seeded Harold Solomon, of Silver Spring, Md., 6-2, 6-4, and Romania's Ilie Nastase, the runnerup here last year to Borg, downed Eddie Gibbs of Miami Beach, Fla., 7-5-6-1.

Argentina's Guillermo Vilas, the second seed, downed Onny Parun of New Zealand, 6-3, 6-1, to gain the men's semifinals.

Ramirez, the No. 6 seed, never lost his poise, forcing the Swedish teen-ager into costly errors on the Italian Forum center court.

The 21-year-old Mexican, who almost single-handedly eliminated the United States from the 1975 Davis Cup, broke Borg's first service in the first set and served out the set.

Borg rallied briefly in the second set, breaking Ramirez in the second game on a disputed game-point line call.

However, the Mexican, who had to scramble for his second and third round victories in the Italian championships, broke back in the third game.

Help for nonprofessional investor

By MORTON C. PAULSON
Dow Jones-Ottaway News
You may not consider yourself a whiz at investing money, but you may have done better than many of the Wall Street hotshots.

Mutual funds have returned an average of 3.5 per cent a year over the past decade, reports Lipper Analytical Services, Inc. Bank trust departments, on the whole, seem to have done worse.

A survey of 10 major banking houses by Pensions & Investments Magazine found that the best performance for the same period was a 2.1 per cent annual gain by the Crocker National Bank in San Francisco. If you merely kept your spare cash in a bank savings account you made more than that.

You could have made far more from high-grade corporate bonds, U.S. government securities, money-market mutual funds, or other vehicles that produced above-average returns.

There are a number of ways that nonprofessionals can get a generous return on their funds without great risk. But information about them has not been readily available.

Now, however, you can find out much of what you need to know from a perceptive new book, "Superyields," by Samuel Coslow. It's not one of those hyped-up miracle manuals that purport to tell how a housewife in Elkhart can, say, make millions in pork-belly futures.

Coslow concentrates on the basics of how to double or possibly triple your return while maintaining a high degree of safety — and he writes in a way that will keep you reading.

"It is foolish to take your unneeded surplus funds and put them where they will eke out only 5 per cent a year, an amount of gain that is completely eaten up by inflation and taxes, so that you are actually in the red at the end of the year."

"It is even more foolish to throw the money away in the Wall Street jungle, unless you are in a position to make a full-time job of it, with the many hours of study and research necessary before you get even a glimmer of understanding."

For most people engaged in running a business or holding down a job, this is a physical impossibility.

For most of us, he writes, the best place is the "little known, little-studied field of ultra-high-income yield where... goals of 10 or 15 per cent a year and more are possible — and without anywhere near the nervous strain, frustration, and insomnia suffered by most stock-market speculators."

There are several relatively simple ways to obtain these goodies, and Coslow explains them. He tells how to buy certificates of deposit, government securities, commercial paper, and other instruments.

He points out that, with somewhat more risk, you can get even happier returns from high-dividend blue-chip stocks, many utility stocks, gold stocks corporate bonds, some mutual funds, and other investments.

He discusses foreign bank accounts and reveals a way to minimize the penalty if you have to redeem a savings certificate. He lists stocks that have raised their dividends in each of the past five years or more.

Sprinkled through the book are facts that may surprise you. For instance, the per-share earnings of utility stocks as a group have increased in 19 of the past 20 years, "an accomplishment no other industry can boast of." Bank savings certificates can be a burner. You should never buy bonds when money is plentiful and interest rates are low.

Short-term interest rates — those paid by treasury bills, certificates of deposit and such — have dropped sharply from their historic levels of last year, so some of the other yields discussed in "superyields" are no longer so super. But, as Coslow notes, the rates ebb and flow, and in recent years the swings have been getting wider.

Even when yields are low, a resourceful individual can magnify his money through other investment such as high-dividend stocks, income-oriented mutual funds, or real-estate investment trusts (which have been clobbered by tight money but could make a dramatic recovery if the economy perks up).

Coslow devotes one chapter to "no - no investments" — those you'd better stay away from unless you're a swinger with cash you can afford to lose. His list included commodity futures, foreign currencies, scotch-whisky investment contracts, new stocks, new bonds with low coupons, mortgages, closed-end bond funds, and straight life insurance as an investment.

CHURCHES ARE INDEPENDENCE HALLS

Independence Hall. Visit this famous American historical shrine in Philadelphia and absorb the memories that go with its history. These memories will make the Liberty Bell ring in your ears and enable you to recapture from our forefathers the heritage they gave to us so long ago—THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE.

The Church is another Independence Hall. Go to Church. Throw back your shoulders, stand erect and experience that feeling of exultation and independence of thought, as did your forefathers who fought for it. Understand and appreciate what it means to be spiritually independent.

INVITATION FOR BIDS
The Redevelopment Authority of the County of Monroe will receive sealed bids for the Capping of Water Lines & Plugging of Sewer Pipes in accordance with specs of Borough of East Stroudsburg and State within the project boundary of the Courtland Plaza Urban Renewal Area No. 1, Project PA-352.

A list of Bids included under contract No. 2 are on file in the office of the Redevelopment Authority of the County of Monroe at 79 South Courtland Street, East Stroudsburg, Pa. Bid proposals will be received until 2 o'clock P.M. local time on the 2nd day of June, 1975, at the office of the Redevelopment Authority of the County of Monroe at which time and place all Bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Drawings and Technical Specifications, are on file at the office of the Redevelopment Authority of the County of Monroe at 79 South Courtland Street, East Stroudsburg, Pa. A certified check or bank draft, payable to the order of Redevelopment Authority of the County of Monroe, negotiable U.S. Government bonds, or a satisfactory Bid Bond executed by the Bidder and an acceptable surety, in an amount equal to ten per cent (10 per cent) of the estimated cost of capping of water lines & plugging of sewer pipes in accordance with specs of the Borough of East Stroudsburg and State.

The successful Bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory performance and payment bond or bonds in the amount of not less than one-hundred per cent (100 per cent) of the estimated amount. An acceptable surety company is any one included in the latest issue of the U.S. Treasury Department Circular 570 listings.

Attention is called to the fact that the Contractor must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

The Redevelopment Authority of the County of Monroe reserves the right to reject any or all Bids or to waive any informalities in the bidding. Bids may be held by the Redevelopment Authority of the County of Monroe for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days from the date of the opening of Bids for the purpose of reviewing the Bids and investigating the qualifications of the Bidders, prior to awarding the contract. Redevelopment Authority of the County of Monroe

In Memoriam

DEITER
IT IS WITH REMEMBRANCE OF our friend, GUY Deiter, who would have graduated with our class on March 9th, 1975, that we gathered here today. The midnight stars are shining. On a lone and silent grave. Beneath where sleeps a friend we love. And whom we could not save. He could not say Goodbye. He was gone before we realized. And only God knows why. Oh God, please take this message to our friend above. Tell him how much we miss him. And give him all our love. Sadly Missed by your friends,
Debi Haag and Phil Stock

Card of Thanks

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all our friends, neighbors and relatives for flowers, food and service during our bereavement of our Son and Brother, RODGER BARTLESON. A special thank you to Rev. Honor for his consoling funeral service and extra prayers and visits to our home. Also, a special thank you to the members of the Honor Guard from the U.S. Marine Corp. Reserve Center, Wyoming, Pa. Family of

Craftsmen transform rocks into jewelry

By JOE RATTMAN

Pocono Record Reporter
CANADENSIS — The log weighs three tons even though it's only five feet high and four feet in diameter.

The log is petrified, 160 million years old, solid rock, and is on display in the Poconos.

The petrified wood is displayed with hundreds of other rocks and gems at the Pocono Mineral and Gem Company. From a distance the log, which is displayed outdoors, looks like the stump of a young redwood tree. Another petrified log next to it looked like a grayling, partially rotted log from a Pocono forest.

Both logs were brought from the desert in Arizona near the Petrified Forest.

From all over

Pocono Mineral and Gem Company imports rocks from all over the world and crafts them into jewelry and furniture. Several craftsmen work throughout the year on creations which are sold only on the premises.

A free tour is given that shows silver and goldsmithing, rock tumbling and mineral displays.

To make the smooth, rounded semi-precious stones used for jewelry making, large rocks taken from mines in the western U.S. and other countries are broken into small pieces and put in a tumbling machine.

The rocks tumble for six to eight weeks. The drum in which the rocks tumble looks like a front-loading clothes dryer. Inside with the rocks there is water and carborundum grit, a very hard mineral.

The grit is like sand and is used to polish the stones, functioning as sand paper would when used on wood. Tumbling is a three stage process. Grit of less coarseness is used as the rocks become more highly polished.

Magic light

One of the most interesting displays is a wall of rocks that in daylight appear gray and unremarkable. But when hidden ultra-violet lamps are lit, the rocks glow brightly, emitting glows of reds, greens and purples. The rocks are fluorescent and some of them continue to glow after the ultra-violet lamps are extinguished.

Rocks found locally are unsuitable for the work done at Pocono Mineral and Gem Company. The only rocks of interest in the area are fossils and coal, but coal deposits are only significant in the northwest fringe of the area toward Scranton.

Some of the minerals displayed are too soft for jewelry making. The hardness of the stones is rated on a one to 10 scale. Diamond, being hardest, is rated 10. More than 30 types of stones are used.

All types of bracelets, ear rings, rings, pins and necklaces are sold ranging from inexpensive costume jewelry to rings made of precious stones costing several hundred dollars. Precious stones are emeralds, rubys, diamonds and sapphires.

Even lamps

There are lamps made with quartz and coffee tables with tops made with multi-colored stones set in poured plastic.

Even a coffee table can be carved from stone

Some other mineral creations imported from Mexico are sold, including carved stone chess sets and hand-crafted glass objects.

Minerals displayed are not for sale because it is difficult to replace them. Several years ago Pocono Mineral and Gem wholesaled minerals, but countries from which they were imported raised prices and limited exports of raw minerals, according to co-owner Carl Loeb.

"We have a lot of good minerals packed away from through the years," Loeb said. There presently is not room to display all of the minerals.

Loeb said he hopes to open an enlarged mineral and art museum. To do so he is engaged in litigation in hopes of obtaining a zoning variance needed if his plan is to be realized.

Fossil hunting is an educational, cost-free experience

STROUDSBURG — Fossil hunting is an educational and cost-free way to spend a day in the Poconos.

Rocks containing fossils about 370 million years old are found in a coral reef zone that extends along an area between Kingston, N.Y. and Lehigh, covering Monroe and Pike counties.

The easiest finds in the Poconos are probably made at a cliff adjacent to Rte. 191 about four miles north of Stroudsburg. Other popular fossil hunting grounds are located at Beltzville Lake near Lehigh and along Cummins Creek at Milford.

Nothing is really needed to go fossil hunting except a sharp eye and a bag to contain the collected specimens. A mason's hammer or a carpenter's hammer with a chisel is sometimes useful but is often not essential.

Scattered along road

At the Rte. 191 location, fossils are scattered loose along the road, so no tools are needed. The site is popular among teachers, who say that elementary school children always find fossils without difficulty.

"Pike County and Monroe County are just loaded with fossils," said Robert Salkin, who coordinates an educational program called "Let's Find Out About Fossils" for the Newark Museum and the Newark, N.J. board of education.

Rock in the Poconos is of the Devonian period, which began about 395 million years ago, about the time of the first insects and amphibians and when fish were already abundant.

"The Poconos were ocean bottom about 370 million years ago," Salkin said. Fossils are usually found in rock that was mud or sand millions of years ago. They are traces or impressions of plants or animals usually now extinct.

The best places to find fossils are often along highways where large masses of rock were blasted during construction. Some fossil hunters reported finds along I-80 a few miles west of Stroudsburg. Salkin said most fossils are found in sedimentary rock.

Like a book

"Look for stratified layers of rock. The layers should look almost like pages of a book, lying down flat. Such layering indicates sedimentary rocks which may have been mud many million of years ago, and are most likely to have fossils imbedded in them," Salkin advises.

Salkin said he found "loads of fossils" at Beltzville before the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers constructed a dam there. Now an area is available for fossil hunting at Pine Run Cove and specimens of the types of fossils found there are on display at the visitor's center.

The display includes a seascape that depicts the evolution of life forms of the area. The area was semi-tropical in pre-historic times, coral reefs formed and lower forms of sea life abounded.

Franklin Buser, a biologist at East Stroudsburg State College, suggests that fossils may be found in waterfall areas because where water cuts through rock there should be exposure of fossils. He recommends a book by I.C. White called "The Geology of Pike and Monroe Counties" that includes information about fossils.

Ideal spots

"The ideal places to go are where fossils were already found," said Salkin, who has found fossils in 44 states, Nova Scotia, Quebec and Israel. Some of his finds are displayed at the Newark, N.J. Museum, American Museum of Natural History, and the Princeton University Museum.

"My eyes are open for every possible thing," Salkin said. He hunts fossils frequently, bringing inner city school children from Newark to the Rte. 191 site.

Salkin runs a federally funded educational program for economically and culturally disadvantaged children. In seven years of field trips to the Poconos, Salkin said that more than 12,000 pupils in grades four through six, and teachers and parents participated.

"I think I brought more people on fossil hunts than anyone who has ever lived," Salkin said. Yet, he noted, the cliff along Rte. 191 shows little sign of all the rock and fossils hauled away.

RICH WITH FOSSILS — This cliff along Rte. 191 near Stroudsburg is one of the most popular spots for area fossil hunters. Many of the fossils are scattered loose along the road, which makes fossil-gathering easy for young children.

Five million seedlings planted

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's wildlife will soon be benefiting from more than five million seedlings planted throughout the state this spring. The seedlings were produced at the Pennsylvania Game Commission's nursery at Howard in Centre County.

Sportsmen's groups, conservation clubs, soil and water conservation districts, landowners cooperating in programs of the Game Commission designed to keep private holdings open to public hunting, other state agencies, coal stripping operators and others received seedlings which will provide future food and cover for wildlife.

More than half of the seedlings were planted by Game Commission personnel on state game lands, tracts which have been purchased with funds derived from the sale of hunting licenses and maintained as public hunting areas, and on farm-game projects, private land which is kept open to public hunting.

Species distributed included scotch pine, red pine, white pine, Austrian pine, banks pine, mugho pine, Norway spruce, white spruce, hemlock, willow, bittersweet, multiflora rose, autumn olive, black locust, flowering dogwood, silky dogwood, mackii honeysuckle, chestnut, Asiatic crabapple, sawtooth oak and bristly locust.

Several changes in the Game Commission's nursery program are planned starting next year. Because it is so prolific, there is less need for multiflora rose, and the production of this species will be trimmed sharply.

Also, with the exception of white spruce and hemlock, coniferous seedlings will be shipped from the nursery at the age of two years in the future, instead of three years as in the past. It is estimated that the change in practice will result in a savings of up to 25 percent in the cost of nursery operations.

Seedlings are provided free of charge by the Game Commission, and planting and maintenance for the benefit of wildlife are usually provided by interested sportsmen and landowners.

Vacationers can economize by camping

By JOE RATTMAN

Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Recession may force some families to spend vacations at home this year, but many are finding that going camping can be an effective way to deal with the economic crunch.

"Going camping" can mean a lot of different things these days. It can involve carrying a sleeping bag to a secluded spot in the woods or driving a $40,000 recreational vehicle to a campsite equipped to supply water, electricity, sewerage disposal and cable TV.

In the Poconos, campsites are available in state parks, in several privately owned campgrounds open to the public, along the Appalachian Trail, and to bonafide non-profit groups only at the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area (DWNRA).

Least expensive

Money is often a primary consideration in a decision to go camping because camping is the least expensive way to travel. There is no charge to camp along the Appalachian Trail, as little as $2 at state parks and only a few dollars more at privately owned campgrounds.

Reservations are usually unnecessary during the week, are advisable on weekends and are absolutely essential for holiday weekends.

Last year, the state parks began accepting reservations for some campsites through Ticketron, the computerized ticket agency. Most state park campsites remain available on a first-come-first-served basis.

The private campgrounds accept reservations by telephone or mail and usually require a deposit, which may be for the full bill on holiday weekends. Two area campgrounds with KOA franchises offer, for a $1 service charge, to make reserervations at any of more than 800 KOA campgrounds nationally.

The three area state parks permitting camping are Hickory Run, Promised Land and Tobyhanna. Vehicles are permitted except in "natural areas."

Camping in natural areas is limited to 48 hours and access is by foot. A permit is required for all state park campsites. Camping areas designed to accommodate vehicles have bath houses with showers and flush toilets except for "primitive" areas which have pump water and latrines only.

Pets are prohibited in state parks campgrounds but are accepted at most private campgrounds. Walter Stanton, owner of Safari Campground in Scotrun, said he thinks the pet prohibition at state parks helps business at the private campgrounds, but that the private campgrounds would refuse to accept pets too "if they could get away with it."

At state parks and at a few private campgrounds alcoholic beverages are prohibited.

A trend in recent years is for private campgrounds to offer entertainment and increasing numbers of recreation facilities. Most of them have swimming pools, usually heated, and some are constructing tennis courts.

Little of everything

Many campgrounds have recreation halls and have stores that sell food, natural

Pocono state parks offer camp, cabin reservations

PROMISED LAND — Campsites and cabins at Pennsylvania state parks are available by reservation or by simply driving in. And just because all of the reservation sites are booked up does not mean that all campsites are taken.

There was confusion about the reservation system among campers last summer, said Promised Land park ranger Robert Wolff, because the public was unaware of the new service which began last summer.

Reservations can be made up to 90 days before the stay is planned to begin. Reservations for a seven day period beginning on Fridays close on the preceding Saturday.

The service is provided through Ticketron, the computerized ticket agency that mostly sells tickets to entertainment and sports events. The nearest outlets are at Sears in Allentown and at the Gallery of Sound in Wilkes-Barre.

Mail reservations are possible by obtaining an application from any park or forestry office and sending it to Ticketron. Persons without reservations can call state parks to determine if space remains available but no reservations are taken by telephone.

State park campsites cost $3 for Class A sites, which have improved sanitary facilities, or $2 for Class B sites, which are "primitive." Ticketron charges an additional $1.50 fee for reservations.

Pets and alcoholic beverages are prohibited in state parks.

Reservations for specific site numbers are not possible. They are assigned by the computer according to the size and type of camping equipment best accommodated at each site.

Reservations can be canceled and refunds for camping fees can be obtained but the $1.50 reservation fee is not refundable. It may be possible to extend a stay longer than a reservation if sites remain available.

Some sites are not sold through the reservation system but are available on a first-come-first-served basis.

At Promised Land state park, cabins are rented on a weekly basis. The cost, depending on cabin size, ranges from $26.50 to $37.10.

Chris Weaver named entertainment director

CRESCO — Chris Weaver, popular actor and singer, has recently joined Pocono Gardens Lodge as entertainment director.

A veteran of all phases of show business, Weaver is at home on the legitimate stage, dinner theater stage, cruise ships, or a night club floor.

He has performed at the top night spots in Miami Beach including the Montmartre, Thunderbird, and Barcelona Hotels and recently finished a run at Sardi's in New York in a comedy presentation starring Martha Raye.

Weaver, as host of and master of ceremonies at the Chariot Room of Pocono Gardens Lodge, will be performing nightly and presenting a variety of top-name talent and entertainment.

Each week audiences will delight to a special floor show featuring Weaver and his unique night club act which includes a variety of songs with excerpts from his Broadway productions, including dialogue and costume changes to tell the story.

Among the many well-known parts he has played on stage or in dinner theaters are those of Sky Masterson in "Guys and Dolls", Don Quixote in "Man of La Mancha", the Captain in "Dames at Sea", and El Gallo in "The Fantasticks".

The Chariot Room at Pocono Gardens is open to the public.

Game commission to meet

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Game Commission will establish hunting and trapping seasons and bag limits on Wednesday for the 1975-76 hunting license year, which runs from September 1, 1975, to August 31, 1976.

The meeting, which will be open to the public, will be held beginning at 9:30 a.m. in Public Utilities Commission hearing Room No. 1 in the North Office Building of the Capitol complex, Harrisburg.

Also on the agenda are establishment of tentative opening dates for 1976 game seasons, restorations and revocations of hunting licenses and other routine items of business.

Members of the commission will meet with sportsmen, governmental agencies and other groups invited to submit recommendations for seasons and bag limits for the coming year on Monday at 8 p.m. This meeting will be held in Keystone Room C, Penn Harris Motor Inn, Camp Hill Bypass.

ABOUT AN EPICUREAN SAFARI . . .

Dining at "Selecta," 6 miles south of Stroudsburg, is like going to a private party abroad. The yellow sign on Rt. 191 reads only: "SELECTA (215) 588-1042 Rijsttafel." A shale driveway leads through woods to a field-stone mansion, the parking lot studded with out-of-state cars.

The host, a spice-importer from Java, introduces the gourmets in the oak-beamed Rattan Bar. Except for stubborn martini-drinkers, most enjoy the "Selecta," exotic-blue House Specialty. The restaurant features an authentic Indonesian Rice-Table buffet on weekend evenings by reservation only. Other cuisine may be ordered ahead. Private parties of 8 or more on other days. Phone for mailing of information/menu card.

gas, souvenirs and gifts. Some sponsor concerts, movies, sing-alongs and bingo.

Campers want to socialize, to have their children meet each other, and report that this is easier at campgrounds than at motels, Stanton said. The campers who go out weekend camping frequently are looking for entertainment, he said.

Campground owners say that they get two types of business, overnight or destination campers and it is the destination business that is increasing. Stanton recalled seeing cars from all over America at his campground only a few years ago but now most campers come from nearby metropolitan areas.

During the summer most campground business comes from families, but between seasons owners report frequent overnight stays by retired couples traveling between the northeast and Florida.

The recreation vehicle owners tend to be older and wealthier than tenters, who vacation as inexpensively as possible. The different lifestyles of the two groups, as when tenters come in on motorcycle, sometimes cause tension between the two groups, Stanton said. Tenters more often leave litter and harm trees, he added.

Bring your own

A few campgrounds now rent

tents or trailers. Usually though, campers must bring their own equipment. Tenters need to more carefully plan their trips than persons with recreational vehicles.

A sleeping bag or several warm blankets are needed. Other necessary supplies are food not needing refrigeration, cooking utensils and a source of light. James Arnott, chief park ranger at DWGNRA, advises that camping stoves are preferable to campfires. They are safer.

The fire rings of campfires leave a scar, attract campers to the same location more frequently and tends to result in harm to vegetation in the area Arnott said.

There is no time limit for camping along the Appalachian Trail in the DWGNRA but in the state park campgrounds, aside from the natural areas, there is a 14 day limit. Camping with cars in the DWGNRA is prohibited.

At the private campgrounds, sites are available for any length of time, even seasonal in many cases, and at reduced rates.

Daily rates are usually based on a family of four with charges for additional persons. There is a recent trend to alter that arrangement at some campgrounds to a family of two.

Additional charges are made for hookups that supply water, electricity, sewerage disposal and cable TV. A fully equipped recreational vehicle at a campsite with hookups has all the comforts of a motel room with the possible exception of spaciousness.

"I don't even really think they should call it camping. It's really just a way of life with recreational vehicles," Stanton said.

Symphony offers free concerts

REEDERS — The Pocono Wind Symphony chamber ensemble is an amateur group with about 15 members and is comprised of persons once high school band members who wished to continue to play following graduation.

Instruments of all sections of an orchestra except strings are represented in the Pocono Wind Symphony.

"We would like to open the band to strings," conductor Swami Premanandashram said. String musicians interested in joining the symphony are welcome, he said.

"We have not had too much response from people coming out of high schools and that puzzles me," Premanandashram said. "What becomes of them musically?" he asked.

Premanandashram graduated in 1973 from Rutgers University with a B.A. in music education and he substitute teaches music in area schools in addition to conducting the symphony and teaching yoga at the conservatory.

Community bands are common in Europe, he said, and are "great for building community spirit." The symphony meets every Wednesday night at Stroudsburg High School, he said, and is loaned instruments by the school. All of the symphony's concerts are free.

Members of the symphony want to return this summer to Court House Square in Stroudsburg, where a concert last August drew 400 people, according to Premanandashram.

The Pocono Wind Symphony began in 1973 as the Pocono Symphony Band but was reorganized and renamed last March. The symphony, under the auspices of the conservatory, is presenting "The Bicentennial Concert Series," now through July 1976.

The concert series began May 10 with a performance of the Rutgers University Wind Ensemble. The Cornell University Wind Ensemble will appear in an outdoor concert today at the conservatory, which is located off Rte. 715.

"Psalm: Devine Mother," opus one, a piece of music Premanandashram wrote for band, will be premiered by the Cornell ensemble, which is conducted by Maurice Stith.

Kittatinny Canoes tailors trips to suit individuals

DINGMANS FERRY — For the past 22 years, Kittatinny Canoes in Dingmans Ferry has been the site of fun-filled canoe trips.

Originally starting with a fleet of six canoes, the operation now consists of 400 canoes, mostly 17-foot Grumman's, on about 135 miles of the Delaware anywhere from Hancock, N.Y. south to the Belvidere, N.J. area.

The owners, Frank and Ruth Jones, will tailor a trip especially for you, quiet trips for beginners or white water for the more expert and adventurous. Even if you have never paddled a canoe before, you and your family will be surprised at how quickly you catch on.

If you are a camper, beautiful campsites are available at Kittatinny Campgrounds on the upper Delaware near Barryville, N.Y., centered in the heart of the Delaware's white water section.

The campgrounds consist of 100 campsites on a 90-acre tract situated along beautiful Beaverbrook. Facilities include toilets, hot showers, swimming pool, coin-operated laundry, camp store, firewood, and ice.

Whether for an overnight stay with your tent or swimming and a picnic... nothing tastes better than food prepared over a driftwood fire. One primitive campsite along the river is also available without charge to their customers.

Some typical trips for one day for beginners can consist of trips ranging from 8 to 19 miles. For a two-day trip, the most popular one is Dingmans to the Delaware Water Gap, 28 miles, and there is excellent canoe camping along the route in the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area.

For experienced canoeists who are looking for white water, there is a 17 mile intermediate trip. This is a base to base trip, starting upstream from Kittatinny Campgrounds... the best rapids are the second day. There is also a two-day trip consisting of 36 miles and starting from Kittatinny Campgrounds and finishing at Dingmans Ferry.

Rental rates for each canoe are $11 on Saturday, Sunday and holidays and $10 on weekdays. Single-day weekend rates are $12. Rates include paddles and life vests.

Transportation of ten or less canoes would cost from $6 up for one day trips; $12 and up for two day trips. There are three bases on the river, when staffed and by prior arrangement only, that canoes may be picked up from at the start of your trip and turned into at the finish, without any canoe transportation charge.

You can also rent a car-top carrier that holds up to three canoes for $2 per day if you wish to transport your own canoes.

Reservations for weekends should be made as far in advance as possible and must be secured by sending one-half of the rental fee. For canoeing mid-week, all that is needed is a telephone call prior to your arrival... canoes are always available mid-week.

Air tour accentuates scenic splendor of Poconos

By JOE RATTMAN
Pocono Record Reporter

ANALOMINK — Flying over the Poconos, the natural beauty of the area seems more impressive than a drive through the countryside because so much more can be seen at once.

The shades of green of the coniferous and deciduous trees are accented by blossoms of dogwood that are visible through the foliage of the larger trees.

Homes, swimming pools, cars and roads appear small, reminding one of a large model train set. The overview of the Poconos is available to the public by taking an air tour from the Birchwood-Pocono Airpark, the Pocono Mountain Airport and Stroudsburg-Pocono Airport in East Stroudsburg.

'Look here'

During the 20-minute ride over the Poconos, offered at Birchwood; usually in a Cessna Skywagon 207 single engine craft, the pilot points out landmarks to passengers.

"On our left down here is Camelback Mountain," said pilot Scott Richardson.

"How fast are we going now?" asked a passenger.

"Right now, 100," Richardson replied.

The plane was cruising at 1,000 feet and the flight path was a broad circle over the area. After Camelback Ski Area at Big Pocono Mountain could be seen, the plane flew over the Stroudsburgs to Delaware Water Gap.

The mountains loom high over the river and appear larger and to be a more impressive geographical phenomenon than when seen from the ground.

The flight path follows the Delaware River upstream. To one side, Sunfish Pond can be seen on the top of Mt. Tammany and on the other, the golf course at Shawnee Inn is visible in the valley below. The tour is completed as the plane circles back to Birchwood.

Glide, too

Glider rides and instruction are also available. The airport is part of Birchwood, one of the largest couples and honeymoon resorts in the area. Birchwood operates an air taxi and charter service, often bringing guests from Allentown-Easton-Bethlehem Airport, a large airport with scheduled commercial flights, about 40 miles away.

"We don't only cater to the couples staying at the resort," Richardson said. Owners of small private planes often fly in at Birchwood for meals and use of the facilities, he said.

Birchwood-Pocono Airpark is a public, commercial airport with one 2,500-foot runway with a parallel taxi strip. An average of six to eight planes land daily. The airport remains open in the winter.

During the late winter and again during autumn, Birchwood pilots fly over Monroe County watching for forest fires. The forests are driest then. Later in the summer, Birchwood pilots will fly over wooded areas watching for defoliation caused by gypsy moths.

Woodchucks safe 'til 16th

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's hunters are reminded that the woodchuck season will not open in the state this year until Monday, June 16.

Prior to 1975, there had been an open woodchuck season in the state since 1952. While there will be no restrictions on the number of woodchucks that may be taken this year, hunters will not be permitted to harvest groundhogs until June 16.

The gliders, also known as sailplanes, hold two passengers besides the pilot. They have no engine and are pulled aloft by another powerful, single engine plane. The two planes are connected by a nylon rope that the glider releases once it is above the airport. Richardson described a glider ride:

"They're fun. They're quiet. They are smooth," he said, adding, "In the glider, half the time you don't even know you have landed."

Glider flights last about 15 to 20 minutes and the planes stay close to Birchwood. Modern gliders are light weight, maneuverable, and can gain altitude, Richardson said.

If you've visited us before you'll be very pleasantly surprised to find our exciting recent additions. We'll be celebrating our birthday all year long, so come join the excitement. You'll find best in linens, fabrics, housewares and notions for all your sewing needs on our lower level. You'll find exotic one-of-a-kind gifts in our unique Around-the-World Gift Center. Enjoy a break in your shopping with a snack in our tearoom or at the fountain. You'll find fashions for the whole family on our main and second floors. Wyckoff's is truly a shopper's delight and brimming with special excitement this year. Come see us soon.

BRAND NEW! COUNTRY STORE AND MUSEUM

A bit of yesteryear has come to life at Wyckoff's in what was once a livery stable. Wyckoff's has faithfully and professionally created a General Store with all of its charm and authenticity. And old post office, patent medicine counter, pot belly stove and the hundreds of other items in the country store museum are a reminder that the community centered in the country store. Everyone is cordially invited to visit the old store at no charge. It seems to say, "Come in and imagine yourself as a shopkeeper, postmaster, shopper or loafer in the pre-macadam days. Hitch up and drive in at your leisure.

BRAND NEW! PLAZA SHOP HOME CENTER

Our Plaza Shop, with entrances on Sixth Street and Quaker Plaza, has been completely transformed into a beautiful Home Furnishing Center with many departments from our Lower Level and many brand new departments. You'll find the best in redwood and wrought iron outdoor furniture, unpainted furniture, lamps, major appliances, draperies, stereos, cameras and a snack counter where you can have a delicious sandwich and a cold drink or an ice cream cone that still only costs 10¢. Wyckoff's expresses its confidence in the continued development of the Poconos by expanding into a new home center to better serve the needs of our customers. Visit us today!
